French Move To Hold Down Price Hikes

PARIS (AP) — The government moved Wednesday to hold price increases to three per cent so that workers will get some advantages from the wage increase of 10-14 per cent they won in the recent nationwide strikes.

With the second round of the elections coming up Sunday—and the Gaullists apparently headed for a record majority in the new National Assembly—the government moved quickly to avoid an inflationary spiral. The action may help the Gaullists at the polls.

President Charles de Gaulle will speak to the nation Saturday by radio and television. De Gaulle has no official part in the campaign but is expected to present arguments for the election of his followers.

The government's price program, tied in with measures to prevent unemployment in the wake of the strikes that once idled about 10 million workers, was outlined after a meeting of the Cabinet.

A communique hinted that price controls will be imposed if manufacturers and shopkeepers do not follow government guidelines.

U.S. Charges North Vietnam With Record Infiltration

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam poured more troops into South Vietnam last month than ever before in a similar period during the war, the United States charged Wednesday.

Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance said a record 29,000 men crossed in May—which saw the start of the Paris peace talks—and "an abnormally high rate of infiltration" is indicated for June. He appealed to Hanoi's delegation at the 10th session of the peace talks, which have been deadlocked from the start, for a sign that could lead to easing the struggle.

"We hope very much to see some response which we have not yet seen on the ground in the direction of de-escalation," he said.

Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese delegate, insisted once again that U.S. bombing must stop altogether before he will even talk about anything else.

Vance repeated that the bombing would be stopped when the time and circumstances were appropriate.

Thuy said the present time and circumstances are appropriate.

Vance retorted: "Does the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam think the circumstances are appropriate when there is no indication that any further restraint by the United States would induce North Vietnam to lower the level of violence on its part and when the record since March 31 shows that U.S. restraint has been followed by North Vietnamese escalation?"

Thuy countered that the United States is doing the escalating.

Trudeau's Solid Victory Backs 'One Canada' Policy

TORONTO (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's solid election victory is being hailed as an endorsement of his "One Canada" policy and a repudiation of those who advocate a special status for Quebec.

His strong showing in French-speaking Quebec was regarded as especially significant since provincial officials were supporting the rival Conservative party.

Trudeau, a French-Canadian himself, had stressed national unity as the major issue during the campaign and had insisted that Canada must maintain a strong federal government while providing for bilingualism.

The Liberals took 55 of Quebec's 74 parliamentary seats as compared to four by Robert Stanfield's Conservatives. One of the victims of the pro-Liberal tide was Stanfield's Quebec lieutenant, Marcel Faribault, who had urged a two-nation policy.

Nationwide the Liberals took 154 of the 264 seats in the House of Commons, giving the country its first majority government since 1962. The Conservatives won 71, a result which former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker called "a calamitous disaster."

The New Democratic party took 23 seats, but lost its top leaders, and the Quebec-based Creditiste party won 15, largely on economic issues.

Trousers Make Fashion News: They're Shorter!

LONDON (AP) — Men's trouser lengths made fashion news Wednesday. They were shorter—right up to the bottom of the calf.

The funniest show in town went on at the Royal College of Art when graduating fashion students paraded their far-out creations to roars of laughter and applause.

Men's wear was even more outrageous and hilarious than the women's clothes.

An ankle-length pin-stripe overcoat with model airplanes perched on its shoulder boards was one star. Most trousers were chopped off at the bottom of the calf, showing bare shanks.

There was even a bare midriff, with a short top just failing to meet the pants. There were see-through chiffon shirts for evening wear.

The annual fashion school show is scouted by the fashion industry. Most of the young designers will move straight into good jobs.

LBJ Names Abe Fortas Chief Justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson nominated his longtime close friend, Justice Abe Fortas, Wednesday to succeed retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren.

And to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court, the President picked a fellow Texan and friend, Judge Homer Thornberry of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, a member of Congress for 14 years. He, like Fortas, is a Democrat.

Fortas, 58, would be confirmed as the first Jew to be the chief justice of the United States. He and Thornberry, 59, are both considered liberals, the dominant trend of the high court under Warren in recent years.

Some Republicans had indicated, when reports of Warren's retirement leaked out last Friday, that they would oppose selection of a successor by a "lame duck" president. But praise for the selection of Fortas came from Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen who called him and Thornberry able men.

Dirksen said he has no personal reservations but declined to be pinned down on whether Republicans might try to block confirmation of either man. "I just don't anticipate anything," he said.

One Republican, Rep. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the first to speak out against a president appointing a chief justice in the waning months of his term, indicated he and others may filibuster against confirmation.

If the nominations are brought up, he said, there will be "extended debate." He called his objections a matter of principle, not of personalities, and said he has considerable support in the Senate.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said of Fortas' nomination: "I imagine it meets with the approval of the court and I hope it meets with the approval of the Senate." He described Thornberry as "a fair man, a good man, a decent man."

Sen. James O. Eastland, D. Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee which must first consider the nominations, declined comment. But the next ranking Democrat, Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas, said he does not expect the nomination of a new chief justice "will sail through" the Senate.

McClellan said in view of the many controversial issues decided by the court, some by 5-4 margins, such a nomination "should be carefully examined and fully considered."

It had been widely speculated that Johnson would pick Fortas as soon as word came out of Warren's impending retirement. Fortas has been a friend of Johnson for 30 years, and has been one of his closest confidants and advisers.

The President confirmed both Warren's retirement and his choice of Fortas at a White House news conference.

$22.4 Million in Heroin Seized; Largest Haul in U.S. History

NEW YORK (AP) — Narcotics sleuths on both sides of the Atlantic were credited Wednesday with smashing a huge, international dope smuggling ring and seizing $22.4 million worth of heroin hidden in a French-made automobile which had been shuttled back and forth across the ocean.

Nationwide the Liberals took 154 of the 264 seats in the House of Commons, giving the country its first majority government since 1962. The Conservatives won 71, a result which former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker called "a calamitous disaster."

The New Democratic party took 23 seats, but lost its top leaders, and the Quebec-based Creditiste party won 15, largely on economic issues.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark called it the largest single seizure of heroin in the nation's history.

Five men were arrested, one in New York and four in Paris. Police in the French capital said one of their captives admitted that the ring in the past three years smuggled 730 kilograms of heroin into the United States — $146 million worth.

Authorities said this was enough dope to supply 60,000 addicts for a year.

Six other men were being sought in France as members of the ring, including an unidentified banker said to have financed the operation.

The ring was said to have imported morphine and the other raw materials for heroin from the Middle or Far East, processed it in France, then exported it to the United States. A hunt was on overseas for the processing laboratory.

The vehicle for smuggling the dope was a metallic gray Citroen, a French car that had made seven round trips across the Atlantic aboard ships, registered each time under a different name.

The car was shipped the last time from Le Havre and seized after it had been unloaded in New York April 24.

Police said 224 small sacks containing 112 kilograms of heroin were found in a dummy gas tank, in body panels, under fenders and in the frame.

The original gas tank had been supplemented by a small auxiliary tank so the main tank could be used to store the narcotics. It was necessary to refuel the car often and that heightened police suspicion — that and the frequency with which the car was crossing the Atlantic.

Arthur Benvenuto, 63, New York, a naturalized American, was arrested April 26 at the French Line's Pier 88 on the Hudson River. The Bureau of Narcotics said the car was being delivered to him and that he was in charge of its unloading.

Benvenuto awaits a hearing on narcotics charges under the Import-Export Act. The maximum penalty is 20 years in prison.

Meanwhile, French police arrested four men whom they had under surveillance. Among them were Jacques Bousquet, 55, and Andre Malibert, 39, described as leaders of the ring.

Authorities quoted Bousquet as saying the smuggling operation had been under way since July, 1965.

Others arrested were Rene Guigil, 47, and Paul Mestresat, 47, named among couriers who had accompanied the car on transatlantic crossings.

Commons Refuses To Abolish House of Lords

LONDON (AP) — The House of Commons refused Wednesday to consider a bill to abolish the House of Lords. The vote was 223-132 on a move by Labor MP William Hamilton to introduce such a bill and it came as an anticlimax to an emotion-filled row last week between the two houses.

Last Tuesday the lords, most of them with hereditary titles, took the unprecedented step of voting down a government order approved earlier by the House of Commons.

On Thursday Prime Minister Harold Wilson responded by announcing plans to weaken the remaining powers of the lords to delay laws. But he rejected pressure from left-wing backbenchers in his own Labor party to abolish the House of Lords entirely, thereby dooming Hamilton's bill.

LBJ Ready To Sign Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson reported Wednesday he thinks he will sign the next day or two the bill Congress passed to raise $10 billion in taxes and trim spending by $6 billion.

The President said, too, that he hopes Congress will give him legislation he submitted Tuesday for registration of every gun in the nation and the licensing of every gun owner.

Taxes and guns were two of the topics that came up at a presidential news conference that focused on the Supreme Court.

Johnson opened the session in his White House office by announcing he has accepted with regret the decision of Chief Justice Earl Warren to retire from the Supreme Court and by naming Associate Justice Abe Fortas to move up to the nation's highest judicial role.

For the vacancy thus being created on the bench Johnson nominated an old Texas friend who succeeded to his Congress seat, Homer Thornberry. Thornberry now is a judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The President ended the news conference by signing formal nomination papers for Fortas and Thornberry.

An assortment of other subjects was sprinkled through the session but there was little positive information on any of them.

Johnson said he is unable to evaluate reasons for intensified Communist pressure on West Berlin. Nor did he wish to evaluate Soviet-American relations at this point. He did say he has no plans for a summit session with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin or a trip to the Soviet Union and a trip to the Soviet Union and a trip to the Soviet Union and a trip to the Soviet Union.

Officer Edward Lindberg, who investigated the mishap, said two of the cars involved, one operated by Clair A. Wood, 9 Melvina St. and the other by Marion Smith Townsend, Knoxville, Iowa, were stopped on Hickory Street waiting for the red light to change when a car operated by Michael Voigt, 204 Sixth Ave., failed to stop for the light, hitting the Townsend auto in the rear which in turn was slammed into the Wood vehicle.

Former Negro Gang Leader Confronts White Minister

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former "warlord" of a Negro youth gang in Chicago was brought face to face Wednesday with the white minister he testified under oath conspired the gang in crime.

George "Watust" Rose, in a packed Senate hearing room, looked directly at the Rev. John R. Fry, a slim, Presbyterian minister, and said he was a "malicious liar" for denying charges made by Rose and others.

Rose repeated point by point allegations that Fry knew his church was used as a gang arsenal, that gang members smoked and packed marijuana within its walls and that Fry warned gang members of impending police raids.

"The Rev. Fry called me a malicious liar," Rose said. "I look at Rev. Fry right now and say that he is a malicious liar." The confrontation before the permanent Senate investigations subcommittee was arranged by chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., who told Rose to "look at him (Fry) and tell me if he is the man who you said did all these things."

"This is hardly the confrontation that is called for in the Constitution, Senator," Fry attorney, William Brackett, protested.

Fry has previously denied all charges made by Rose and other witnesses brought before the subcommittee.

Fry sat at the long witness table, his face frozen and flushed, as Rose repeated his story that Fry passed on an order from a jailed gang leader "directing him to take out" (kill) a Chicago narcotics peddler.

"He knew guns were there," Rose said. "He saw them. They were all over the church, in the office, the gym, and the basement."

Once, while gang leaders were smoking marijuana in their office on the third floor, Rose said Fry knocked on the

Pope Announces Bones Identified as St. Peter's

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said Wednesday bones found beneath St. Peter's Basilica 18 years ago have been identified, "in a manner we can think of as convincing," as those of the apostle St. Peter.

The Pope made the announcement three days before the close of the Roman Catholic Church's year of faith, honoring the martyrdom of St. Peter and St. Paul.

Addressing thousands of pilgrims at his weekly general audience, Pope Paul said: "We have reason to believe that the few but sacrosanct mortal remains of the prince of apostles have been traced."

He indicated that the remains — fragments of bone and skull plus a bit of purple cloth with golden thread — would be objects of special veneration.

His statement seemed sure to stir even more controversy over the disputed remains. The Pope acknowledged this himself.

"Research, checking, discussion and polemics will not cease (with) this happy announcement," he said.

The Pope did not disclose what, if any, new evidence had been offered as proof of authenticity.

The fragments were unearthed in 1950 after a decade of archeological excavation under the confessional altar in St. Peter's Basilica, the largest church in Christendom.

Pope Pius XII announced the discovery, but said at the time the origin of the relics could not be ascertained.

Arguments in support of the theory that the bones were those of St. Peter came in the following years from Margherita Guardacci, a professor of archeology at the University of Rome.

St. Peter is believed to have spent the last years of his life in Rome, and to have been crucified in 64 or 65 A.D., during anti-Christian persecutions.

The Vatican has rejected offers by outside scientists to submit the bones to carbon tests to determine their age.

State Hospital Concerned About Farm Directive

A directive in May by Dr. Thomas W. Georges Jr., Department of Public Welfare, that farming operations at 16 state mental institutions in Pennsylvania be phased out by January 1, 1969, caused considerable concern at Warren State Hospital.

In a letter dated June 24, 1968 to Dr. Robert Israel from State Senator Richard C. Frame, the latter advised that Governor Shafer had agreed there will be no suspension of farming activities at WSH until such time as the Governor and Sen. Frame personally have an opportunity to view the situation.

Frame stated that "at that time he will be in touch with" Dr. Israel, WSH supervisor, and suggested Israel assure his people that "no such suspension is imminent."

sional District selected three delegates to the convention, two of whom are pledged to Sen. Eugene McCarthy and one to Vice President Hubert Humphrey. The Rev. James C. Woods, assistant pastor of Christ Episcopal Church of Hornell, and Chaplain at Alfred University, was the top vote getter with 3,686.

He was followed by John O'Connell of Cean, a Humphrey supporter with 3,538. The final delegate elected was Frank Ann Anastasio, a member of the faculty at Corning Community College and a supporter of Sen. McCarthy, Anastasio polled 3,449 votes.

Edward L. Redmond, Jamestown, was fourth with 3,291 votes. He was followed by Gerace with 3,212. No details are yet available on the winner of the alternate delegate positions, which were also contested by three slates of delegates pledged to Humphrey, McCarthy, and the late Sen. Kennedy.

Administration Launches Fight for Gun Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's fight for tighter gun control laws was launched in Congress Wednesday, with Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark advocating the registration and licensing of all firearms and a ban on interstate mail order sales.

Clark told the Senate Judiciary Committee's juvenile delinquency subcommittee, "It is not hysteria that demands gun controls—it is 7,700 murders, 11,000 suicides, 55,000 assaults, 71,200 robberies in a single year."

He added, "Several tragic assassinations have dramatized the peril firearms are. But that peril has existed and been known for decades. It has been disregarded at an awesome cost which, when totaled, amounts to a national catastrophe."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., two of whose brothers were shot to death by assassins, wrote the subcommittee chairman Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., that Congress "should not delay even a day" in passing strict gun legislation. He said delay could mean "needless tragedy and suffering."

Clark recommended interstate control, registration and licensing of firearms, saying the safety of the public depends on tougher gun control laws.

President Johnson sent his proposed firearms control bill to Congress Tuesday.

Though expected to receive heavy support in the Senate Judiciary Committee, the registration measure has been more coolly received in the House.

By WALTER ERBLAND

If you like to laugh, you'll like the current Warren Summer Theatre production of Murray Schisgal's "Luv" which opened Tuesday night at the Playhouse Playhouse.

It's a hilariously easy to take farce about two opposites whose mutual attractions is a brainy but befuddled gal. Schisgal throws enough comic curves to give this version of the internal triangle a few bulges.

The honor runs the gamut of humor visual and verbal jokes—some of them, no doubt, current in the days when Caesar crossed the Rubicon, others original to the author.

Three remarkably excellent performances by Alfred Hulse, Bill Odell and Marjorie Melnick give the show a patina of professionalism rarely found in this part of the country.

Hulse is irrepressible as Harry Berlin—down and out, mistaken for a fire hydrant by dogs, totally lacking a will to live. Odell sparkles as a hyperactive Milt Manville hell bent on success even if it means reclaiming usable items from city trash barrels.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee wants a bill instituting controls of the mail order sales of shotguns and rifles enacted quickly, but he says the addition of registration and licensing may endanger such a measure.

And Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., of the House Rules Committee has rebuffed attempts to get the mail order bill to a House vote before the July 4 recess by scheduling a hearing to clear the bill for floor action the day before the recess begins.

After delivering his prepared statement on the administration-backed measure, Clark came under stiff questioning by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb.

"The question arises whether or not Congress has the power to tell an individual citizen of the United States whether or not he can possess a gun," Hruska commented.

"The Constitution empowers Congress to enact laws for the public safety and do everything necessary and proper to enforce those laws," the attorney general replied.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., questioned the federal government's right to require registration of firearms, contending this should be left to the states.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, speaking on behalf of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said federal licensing controls should be imposed only where state and local authorities fail to act.

Playhouse Production Throws Comic Curves

Miss Melnick is a joy to watch as she attempts to find a sterile corner in a much used handkerchief or explains her home made charts on her husbands' performances.

The fine direction of Harry Smith and Edith O'Hara is responsible for the timing and quick pace which give the show a good share of its de-lightfulness.

Bob Kates' scenery is as superior as the production itself.

Gilbert H. Grosvenor, who went from only employee of the National Geographic Society to president and editor at the time of his retirement, once said, "I personally addressed all the wrappers for the first issue I edited (April 1899) and carried the entire mail edition to the post office in one trip."

Thornberry Overwhelmed By Court Appointment

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson telephoned one of the Texas Democrats he knows best Wednesday morning and said: "Homer, I'm sending in your name."

"I was just overwhelmed," said Judge Homer Thornberry of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

A blocky man of medium height and wavy white hair, Thornberry alternately smiled and looked serious Wednesday as he discussed the appointment to the U.S. Supreme Court.

President Kennedy named Thornberry, who still held Lyndon Johnson's old congressional seat after 15 years, to the U.S. district court for the Western District of Texas in 1963.

President Johnson appointed him to the circuit court in 1965. Thornberry was sworn in at the LBJ Ranch.

Johnson called him Tuesday night and said he was being considered.

Thornberry said he told no one but his wife. "I didn't think I would get it," he said.

When Johnson called him Wednesday, Thornberry replied: "I'll be grateful to you and I hope I can deserve this confidence."

Thornberry does not classify himself as a liberal or conservative. "I think a judge has to look at the law as it is and should be — and does what he thinks right," he said.

Others have called him a liberal. He was a member of special three-judge federal courts that ruled the Texas poll tax unconstitutional (1966) and knocked out the Texas disturbing the peace law (1968), calling the latter too vague.

Thornberry is a native of Austin. His parents, both deaf, taught at the Texas State School for the Deaf.

He got B.B.A. and LL.B. degrees at the University of Texas, working part of the time as a chief deputy sheriff. He served in the Texas Legislature, where he was one of "the immortal 56" who blocked a state sales tax in 1939.

He served in the Navy during World War II and was discharged as a lieutenant commander.

He married Eloise Engle in 1945. They have three children, all attending the University of Texas: Molly, 22; David, 19; and Kate, 17.

After service on the Austin City Council, he succeeded Johnson in the U.S. House when Johnson moved over to the Senate.

Police Claim Leading Gambling Racket Dead

NEW DELHI (AP) — Matka, which began humbly as any smalltime racket, and grew up to become a national institution, is dead.

Or so the police claim. Others are not sure.

The police claim is based on the fact that this month they arrested a person believed to be the kingpin of the racket.

Matka is the Indian version of gambling on New York cotton futures. About four years ago, the authorities formally, though not very successfully, banned speculation on the New York market, and Matka was born in World, a Bombay locality.

The word means an earthen pot in which water is stored. In World, however, one night a few racketeers got together and stored slips of paper with numbers from zero to nine, collected a score of people from the neighboring alleys, asked them to place a bet, and finally invited one of them to take out a slip from the pot. That was the winning number.

RESURRECTION CITY DISAPPEARS

Resurrection City, home of the Poor People Campaigners for the past several weeks is rapidly disappearing from the West Potomac Park, Washington as workmen moved in to clear away the shacks that housed the residents.

Justice Fortas Defender Of Individual Liberties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abe Fortas, picked to be chief justice of the United States, can be expected if confirmed to champion extension and possible expansion of the role of the Supreme Court as defender of individual liberties.

As an attorney, Fortas carved out a place for himself in that field. As a member of the court since 1965, he has broadened the role through his votes in court decisions and the opinions he has written.

Those decisions have in the main paralleled those of Chief Justice Earl Warren, whom Fortas was named Wednesday to succeed, but with variations. Fortas is one of President Johnson's oldest confidants and advisers, and in some respects perhaps his closest. He has been in the councils of high decision ever since Johnson began moving into upper realms of government. Their association goes back to Johnson's years in the House.

Fortas, just turned 58 on June 19, is the one Jew on the Supreme Court. None of his faith has been chief justice.

He is a native of Memphis, Tenn., son of William and Ray (Berson) Fortas. The father was a cabinet maker immigrant from England.

At the age of 13 he began earning a living by playing the violin at dances and parties.

He achieved almost professional ability and put himself through Southwestern University and Yale Law School with his music.

After graduation from Yale Law School, Fortas taught there from 1933 to 1937, dividing time between that and posts with various New Deal government agencies. He was made undersecretary of the Interior in 1942 when he was 32, and served until 1946.

In the latter year he formed a law partnership with Thurman Arnold and Paul Porter which has been among the capital's most prestigious. It was from that lucrative practice that Johnson persuaded Fortas to move to the Supreme Court.

His professional association with Johnson dates back to 1948 when he went to the Supreme Court with an appeal that helped put the future president into the Senate.

Johnson had won a Texas primary by only 87 votes and a federal judge had ordered his name off the ballot until the outcome could be investigated.

Fortas took the issue to Justice Hugo L. Black who set aside the order. Johnson's name went on the ballot and he won the election.

Poor People Apply Pressure Against Agriculture Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Poor People's Campaign sought a federal court injunction Wednesday to force the Agriculture Department to spend $227 million immediately to feed hungry people.

The campaign also called upon four major presidential candidates to condemn Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman's "inhuman" decision to return unspent surplus commodities money to the Treasury Department before the fiscal year ends Sunday.

Suit for the injunction was filed in U.S. District Court here by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which is headed by the Poor People's Campaign leader, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy.

Abernathy, serving a 30-day jail term for leading an illegal Capitol Hill demonstration this week was visited by Harold Stassen, a GOP presidential hopeful.

Acting in his place, the Rev. Andrew Young, executive secretary of the SCLC, told a news conference Freeman has discretionary authority to spend the $227 million.

Freeman has maintained he lacks congressional authority to use the money except in emergencies. The Poor People's Campaign has argued an emergency exists because millions of Americans are undernourished.

Young challenged Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller "to take a stand condemning the return of that $227 million to the treasury."

The Agriculture Department has been the most frequent target of demonstrations since the Poor People's Campaign was launched seven weeks ago. The campaign contends over 600 U.S. counties lack food programs for the poor, and that the Agriculture Department is not moving to correct the situation.

Young said demonstrations will continue there. "But," he added, "much of the problem is in Congress and so we will continue demonstrating at the Capitol, too."

The 36-year-old minister criticized the House Agriculture Committee for killing a bill to expand the food-stamp program, which helps the poor buy food at low prices.

He said demonstrators will picket the Washington offices and homes of the 26 committee members who voted against the measure, and also will demonstrate in their congressional districts.

Political Restrictions Hindered Westmoreland

HONOLULU (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland said Wednesday Viet Cong forces in South Vietnam cannot be defeated in the classic sense because of the political rules that tied his hands.

In a news conference aboard the liner President Wilson, Westmoreland said he did not have the "full freedom" to bring massive military strength to bear in the conflict "due to understandable political restrictions."

Therefore, he said, to "defeat the enemy in the classic sense has not been attainable."

The general, dressed in a charcoal-colored suit, arrived from Yokohama accompanied by his wife and three children. He is headed for Washington to take over as Army chief of staff.

He said that if he made any mistakes as commander in Saigon for 4½ years it was in not making some decisions quick enough.

"But hindsight is always 20-20," he added.

He could replay his years in Saigon what would he do differently?

The general said "one learns from experience" and that if he could have fought the war over again he might have done some things "somewhat differently in some detail."

But not the major strategy, he said. He said the type of climate and the guerrilla warfare fought over sustained periods were new to U.S. forces. If he had it to do over "certain decisions" would have been reached quicker, he said.

Westmoreland will remain in Honolulu until Monday when he will fly to Washington, D.C. He joins the Joint Chiefs of Staff officially on Tuesday.

Resurrection City, the shantytown that was built to symbolize America's poor people, has vanished from sight since police seized it Monday.

Workmen were removing the last vestiges Wednesday from a 15-acre stretch of land between the Washington Monument and Lincoln Memorial.

Another of the campaign's symbols, a mule train, was impounded by the National Park Service Wednesday morning, forcing the campaign to cancel a second day of touring through Washington.

Park police said the 24 mules were not being properly cared for and would be turned over to the Humane Society if the SCLC does not provide pasture land for the beasts. The mules pulled 13 wagons of poor people from Marks, Miss., to Washington for the campaign.

The animals have been grazing on federal parkland since their arrival last week.

Information Booth

The newly opened tourist information booth of the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau is proving worthwhile, at least according to reports received from last weekend.

The young man stationed at the booth during daytime hours stated that over the first weekend the center had an almost steady stream of "customers," but since then the demand for information has been spotty at the location across from St. Joseph's Church along Pennsylvania avenue west.

While it is too early to analyze the trend of what areas the inquiries represent, the Vacation Bureau should keep records for future promotions.

It was reported after last weekend that between 60 and 65 per cent of the persons stopping for information were from western Pennsylvania and possibly 30 to 35 per cent from eastern Ohio. More remaining requests came from more distant locations.

From these figures it appears Kinzua Country is best known to those in a reasonably close radius.

ART BUCHWALD

Automobile Controls

WASHINGTON — The Committee to Abolish the Registration of Automobiles and the Licensing of Drivers has just opened a lobby in Washington and I was happy to visit with Roger Crash, their spokesman.

Mr. Crash said, "We have organized this organization because the constitutional rights of all automobile drivers are at stake. There is no reason why anybody should not be allowed to own and drive an automobile in this country without his rights being infringed by local, state and federal authorities."

"Obviously you're against registration of vehicles, then?"

"We certainly are. Most people who drive should not be inconvenienced by some bureaucrat who wants to know what they intend to use a car for. There is a conspiracy in this country to give everyone to register their automobiles, so they eventually can be taken away from them."

"Who is behind the conspiracy?"

"The Communists. They know that America would collapse overnight if their automobiles were confiscated. The country is going through an hysterical period right now. They blame all the automobile deaths and accidents on the drivers. But you're not going to prevent accidents by asking people to register their vehicles. If somebody wants a car to kill somebody, he'll find it, no matter how many laws you have."

"You're also against a driver's tests, aren't you?"

"We certainly are. Why should you penalize the law-abiding average driver by making him take a driver's test, just to catch a few nuts who are outside the law?"

"By asking someone to take a driver's test, you are subjecting him to indignity and guilt by association. You cannot punish the car-loving citizen who only uses his car for pleasure, in order to prevent accidents caused by lawless elements of our society."

"Mr. Crash, one of the arguments for registering automobiles and making people take a driver's test is that it prevents the vehicles from getting into the hands of children, criminals and unstable people who might cause accidents."

"The bleeding hearts and do-gooders use this argument all the time, but the automobile is part of our American birthright. Has it ever occurred to you that in every police state the dictators make their people register their automobiles and take a driver's test?"

"Is your society for doing away with traffic laws as well?"

"We are against what would inconvenience a driver in any way. People must be free to do what they want with their automobiles. Our economy depends on motor vehicles. Every time you pass a traffic law you discourage someone from buying a car. Traffic laws don't prevent accidents; people prevent accidents."

"How do you propose to repeal the registration and driving test laws that are now on the books?"

"By launching a mammoth letter campaign. We're going to ask everyone who owns a car to write his congressman and senator demanding the repeal of all laws having to do with motor vehicles. This is an election year and, I assure you, our legislators are paying attention to their mail."

"I must admit you make a strong case against automobile controls. Do you think you have a chance?"

Mr. Crash replied, "There is now a big hue and cry about automobile accidents in this country, but it will die down soon. And then our lobby will really be able to go into action. We're tax-free, you know."

Letter To Editor

I would like to express our sincere appreciation to the many people in your community who treated us so kindly on Thursday and Friday, June 13 and 14. We had a canoe accident and were in need of housing as well as help, it was heart-warming to be treated with such hospitality by Reverend Karl Nelson of St. John's Lutheran Church, the Warren Rescue Squad, and Warren Memorial Hospital. What Is Price 'Stability'?

Q. What would be "reasonable price stability" in the U. S.?

A. It would be a price increase averaging around 2 per cent a year.

Q. Why shouldn't "price stability" mean stable prices?

A. Because rarely in modern times have prices in this country remained unchanged over a full year or actually declined and the years during which price increases have been fractional or there have been actual decreases have usually been years of large-scale unemployment. We are not prepared to tolerate a high unemployment rate in exchange for no price increases. And we haven't learned how to mesh virtually stable prices with full employment.

Q. If reasonable price stability is defined as a 2 per cent annual price rise, what is inflation?

A. Anything above a 3 per cent rise a year for a protracted period of time.

Q. What's the rate of price increase now?

A. It's running at an annual rate of 4 per cent, unquestionably in the range of "inflation."

It's generally understood that a key goal of the income tax increase-spending cuts package is to curb demands for goods and services. The theory is that a restraint on our demands will help force prices back from today's inflationary 4 per cent a year rate of rise to a more reasonable rate and finally to the acceptable 2 per cent annual increase.

But it's not generally understood that the words "reasonable price stability" and "inflation" mean in hard numbers. The dictionaries, for instance, define inflation as "a sharp and sudden rise in prices" or "a sharp and sudden fall in the value of money in circulation," but they significantly omit the percentages which would bring those words to life.

Thus, the explanation I'm submitting here, and incidentally, the numbers are accepted by most top economists.

Of course, a 2 per cent a year rise in prices reflects erosion in the buying power of your dollars. Over 10-year period, a 2 per cent annual price rise would slash the purchasing power of your dollar from 100 c to 82 c.

In our growing, dynamic society, though, our income gains will generally outrun price increases averaging a modest 2 per cent a year.

What's more, if you're saving money, you generally will be able to earn returns on it which will more than offset the 2 per cent yearly erosion in your money's purchasing power.

We have made it clear that we will tolerate this rate of loss in the buying power of our dollar in order to achieve high production, employment and income.

But a 3 per cent annual rate? That would be intolerable over any period of time.

A 3 per cent yearly price rise would mean that the dollar which buys 100 c of goods and services today would buy only 74.4 c worth in 10 years and only 45.6 c worth in 20 years. A loss coming close to 50 per cent in only 20 years would openly invite a massive flight from dollars. To accept it would be to forfeit our position of financial leadership in the world.

A 4 per cent annual rate? That would obviously be even more intolerable over any period.

A 4 per cent yearly rise — which is what we are now having, mind you — would slash the 100 c dollar in your pocket today to a buying power of only 67.6 c in 10 years and to a buying power of only 45.6 c in 20 years. While small, underdeveloped lands can suffer this erosion, great powers cannot — and remain great.

What is the outlook? The outlook is that with the tax increase reducing take-home pay and net after-tax profits, demands will be moderated and price pressures will be lessened. After a while, this lessening of demand pressures will lead to lessening of pressures on wage cost. Excessive demands will stop pulling up prices so sharply; excessive costs will stop pushing up prices so sharply.

Inflation, then, will gradually come under control. The annual rate of rise in prices will slip back to 3 per cent and under. We will be on our way back to the pace of increase which is the equivalent of stability in our economy.

The Harris Survey

By LOUIS HARRIS

Debate counters and convention watchers continue to report that Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey have their respective party nominations all but sewed up. The only thing which might stop either man, most observers agree, is a precipitous drop in their individual standings in the national public opinion polls.

Richard Nixon has now encountered just such a poll decline. From a position of running nearly even against prospective Democratic opponents in April and early May, Nixon appears to be a heavy loser in the immediate period following the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy. He is now 7 points behind Vice President Humphrey and 8 points behind Sen. Eugene McCarthy, which translates into the order of 5 million votes.

Under normal circumstances, such a decline in Nixon's strength would automatically enhance the chances of his arch-GOP rival, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. But in the surge of pro-Democratic sentiment following the tragic death of Sen. Kennedy, Gov. Rockefeller has also slipped in his poll standing.

But there are two main differences between Nixon and Rockefeller's situations. First, the New York governor's decline against Humphrey has been marginal, while Nixon's has been close to precipitous. A switch of only 2 points could put Rockefeller all even with the Democratic vice president. A comparable swing in Nixon's case would still leave him behind.

A second and perhaps even more significant element is that of momentum. At mid-June, when the latest Harris Survey was conducted, Rockefeller was in the early stages of a massive advertising and television campaign to take his case to the people. As the GOP underdog, Rockefeller has been free to go all out with virtually nothing to lose. From all reports, Nixon had decided to play it safe, seeking to avoid engagement with Rockefeller, on the one hand, or committing a blunder, on the other.

The result on the Republican side is that Nixon is apt to come down to the Miami convention delegate-rich but poll-poor. If his standing in the national polls does not improve and Rockefeller gains 2 or 3 points, Nixon's seemingly sure nomination of only a few short weeks ago could be made vulnerable.

On the Democratic side, Sen. McCarthy is far behind in delegates, but is slightly stronger than Vice President Humphrey in the polls. For McCarthy to capitalize on his spurt as a result of the Kennedy assassination, however, Humphrey must show a decline. And at the moment, by any standards, the Vice President is running strong and well against both Nixon and Rockefeller.

The momentum in the Democratic contest is less clear. Humphrey can be expected to continue to pick up his string of delegates, added to some extent by his poll showing against Republicans. McCarthy, off his strong run in New York and his new-found standing in the polls, has found new blood in his long run for the nomination. Since the Republican National Convention will make its decision before the Democrats meet in Chicago, the relative standing of Humphrey or McCarthy against the eventual GOP choice could be an important factor.

To a large degree, whether Humphrey gains or loses in the polls from now until the Democratic National Convention is likely to determine whether he can nail down the nomination beyond any doubt. But this turn might well hinge on the stance the vice president takes. If he appears to be desperately holding onto what seems to many to be a sure thing, in an essentially defensive posture, his poll standing could drop, particularly against Rockefeller. If Humphrey can fill at least part of the vacuum created by the death of Sen. Kennedy, the odds would strongly favor his remaining ahead until the Chicago convention.

One key point must be made in any discussion of the impact of the polls on this year's nominations and election. The polls themselves are passive instruments.

The national public opinion polls, nevertheless, are the only systematic measurement of the reaction of the American people to the unexpected and cataclysmic events of 1968 as they have taken place. When people say the polls can be crucial, they should say that the response and wishes of the voters themselves are pivotal.

DREW PEARSON

Poor People Stayed Too Long

(Editor's Note: Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his second grandson, George L. Arnold, Jr.)

June 24, 1968

Dear George,

Last week your brother Drew was walking down to the Lincoln Memorial past Resurrection City when he was accosted and beaten. It was the day before the Solidarity March and he was going down there to volunteer to help the march.

As he was passing Resurrection City a young Negro inside the fence shouted at him to come over there. Drew kept on walking. The Negro slipped out through a hole in the fence, came up from behind and cracked Drew over the neck and shoulder with a club. Then another Negro jumped out from nowhere and hit him with another club. A third threw a big rock which hit him in the back. They spewed out some filthy cuss words.

Your brother wore a solidarity button featuring white and black hands together. But that didn't make any difference to the young hoodlums.

Fortunately Drew wasn't too badly hurt. And the next day he got up at 6:30 A.M. and went down to the Washington Monument to act as an usher for the march. He realized that the young Negroes who had jumped him did not represent the real segment of the poor people. They did represent a segment of hatred against whites which recently has become much intensified, and constitutes a real danger in this country.

By this time the great majority of the poor people who first came to Washington had already gone home and only the robes inside Resurrection City, with young Negroes coming outside to taunt the police with, "We want a whitey."

So what started as a well-intentioned move to impress Congress with the plight of the poor is ending in what Negro columnist George Schuyler calls "Insurrection City... misbegotten by a passel of peripatetic, pulpless parsons who are veterans of planned pandemonium."

And the danger is that the Poor People hurt the ideals they set out to help. This week, for instance, the education bill was due to come up for a vote in the House of Representatives; after that the housing bill and the anti-poverty bill. All affect the poor. And some conservative Congressmen have been using the Poor People's March as an excuse to boast that they weren't going to be bulldozed by Rev. Abernathy into voting for these vital programs.

The Poor People have already hurt those who have helped the most. They booed Vice President Humphrey, who over the years has initiated every civil rights bill in Congress. They picketed Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, who has done more to feed people than any one else in government.

RUSSELL BAKER

Two Weeks in 'Mare's Nest'

NANTUCKET, Mass. — Excerpts from a vacationer's diary:

Saturday—Arrived exhausted and trembling after 14-hour drive. This house is named "Mare's Nest" and has a library consisting of every National Geographic published up to 1938, a complete set of the Bobsey Twins, two novels by Marie Corelli, and a copy of "Beau Geste."

The children have gone to bed in a state of shock. Reason: no television set. Bambl wants to go home first thing tomorrow. Little Archie says "I feel like I've been amputated."

Sunday—A 48-hour day of rain. Am bitten by a spider. Monday—Rain continues like an all-day bombardment. Buy the children a radio to give them some noise. It seems to soothe them a little, but not much. Josette flies into a rage upon being refused permission to use the car and bites Rover. Bedsheets are damp. Mold growing on the carpets. Read "The Bobsey Twins Go to the Seashore" and 17 issues of the National Geographic, and pray for sunshine.

Tuesday—Sunshine! Glorious sunshine! Everyone rushes to the beach, soaks up four hours of sun. Have just returned from Dr. Vetch's for treatment of scute smurn. "Stay out of the sun for at least a week," he warns. "What am I going to do?" I ask. "Drop by my house," he says, "and I'll lend you some back copies of the National Geographic to help pass the time."

Wednesday—Sneak into town and buy copy of "Playboy."

Thursday—Josette bends the car around the fence post trying to get out of the yard. Damage: about $150.

Friday—Every fuse in "Mare's Nest" blows out at 8:10 p.m. Conduct a two-hour search for the fuse box and finally locate it in a secret chamber under the back porch. Strike head on nail-studded rafter and have to visit Dr. Vetch for tetanus injection.

Saturday—Finally solve mystery of why Bambl, Josette and Little Archie have been so serene the past few days. They have found a friend with a television set and are sneaking off to his house to maintain big injections of "McHale's Navy" and "Gunslinger."

Unfortunately his hands are sometimes tied by restrictions passed by Congress. And if the Poor People really want to picket effectively, they would single out Rep. W. R. Poage of Texas, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and some of his Dixiecrat-Republican cohorts. They are the ones who pass these restrictions.

I remember that after Sen. Joe Clark of Pennsylvania called attention to starvation in Mississippi, one whole year before the Poor People's March, Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi passed a $25 million appropriation bill to feed the hungry.

That, however, was as far as it got. The money was blocked by Rep. Poage and the Republicans on his committee. They wouldn't hold public hearings.

Poverty is a problem which concerns everyone. It does not involve military secrets or the defense of the nation. Yet Chairman Poage insisted on holding closed-door hearings so the public would not know how he killed the money to feed the poor.

The Poor People's March with all its unpleasant aspects in the final days, accomplished something. It helped to pry loose more than 200 million in surplus food. It also speeded up the housing bill. But more important than anything else, it focused public attention on the fact that there is a large segment of poor people in this country which is gradually drifting further down the economic ladder.

Some of them, like the young hoodlums who attacked your brother, have come to accept violence as a way of life. They steal, beat up, rape, even murder, almost as if they were eating a meal.

There are no easy remedies for this. It will take years before we can get these hard-core militants to become law-abiding citizens. Some of them will never change. Some of them don't want to work and never will.

James Clark, a Negro plumber who was trying to help the residents of Resurrection City without charge, got an illustration of this. He couldn't get a single one of the poor people to help him dig a ditch to repair their own sewage facilities.

What makes for continued and deepening poverty is the fact that the schools in the ghettos are run down and getting worse. And the labor unions are geared so that the building trades and craft unions get higher and higher wages—around $600 a week for electrical workers in New York — meanwhile excluding Negro apprentices. So while the labor union member gets more and the unskilled worker gets proportionately less, the gap between the two gets wider and wider. This is true also between the big farmer and the tenant farmer.

These are problems which your grandfather's generation has failed to solve. This is the real reason your brother was beaten while passing Resurrection City. My generation should not pass these problems on to you. We should solve them ourselves now. If we don't, if we pass them on to you unsolved, they will be much more worse.

it away and replace it with an even more antique clock for $835. Little Archie got up on the roof this afternoon and kicked off half the shingles on the east end of "Mare's Nest."

Friday—Awakened at 3 a.m. today by a sense of dampness about the feet and found as a result of heavy rain pouring in through the damaged roof. Developed a fever of 103 about noon, and Dr. Vetch going into the hospital as a precaution against pneumonia. Refused when he told me the hospital had just gotten the latest issue of the National Geographic.

Saturday—Roofers came today. Felt so much better I decided to treat everybody to lobster dinner. Price of lobster: $2 a pound. With cutting wit, told fish dealer "in that case maybe I'd better have the chin-chilla." "We don't have none," he said. Concluded that he was too foolish to get the point, but discovered on arrival back at "Mare's Nest" that he had mpegged the cutting claw of a three-pounder. Visited Dr. Vetch for treatment of severely jagged laceration of the right index finger while preparing dinner.

Sunday—Leaving "Mare's Nest" for home within the hour. Have not felt so good for a year. Children have never been happier. Dr. Vetch just dropped in to say good-by, but as the clock was striking the hour it was impossible to converse. Seated, however, to miss me, and in a moment of emotion handed him my copy of "Playboy." He seemed as delighted to get it as I was to see the end of another vacation.

Traffic Ticket Racket

HARRISBURG — An upstate lawmaker the other day let down his thinning locks on the floor of the House of Representatives on a subject that over the years has become galling and exasperating to Keystone State motorists outside of Philadelphia — the Philadelphia traffic ticket racket.

Quoth Representative William F. Renwick, of St. Marys, whose 75th district embraces Cameron, Elk and part of Clinton counties, at one point in his lambasting of the Philadelphia traffic ticket racket:

"My real concern is a constituent of mine who lives in my home town of St. Marys. I have here, you can all see it, the ninth ticket that she has received within the past five months. In checking out the license number of this particular car, the owners are listed as Bernard and Viola Fannin. Bernard is the husband — but he has received nothing. However, Viola, his wife, has received nine of these so-called summons."

"Yet when I checked with the Bureau of Motor Vehicles here in Harrisburg, this license number that is continually violating the parking restrictions in the City of Brotherly Love is an unlisted number — and when I asked who receives these unlisted numbers I was informed that it would be either a special police investigator or the FBI!"

Significantly, two other members of the House took to the floor following Mr. Renwick to level criticism of the Philadelphia traffic ticket racket that has plagued their areas — Representative Victor Westerburg, of McKean County and Representative Ronald Lench, of Beaver County.

Significantly too, during the course of the 1967-68 legislative session, three resolutions have been introduced asking for investigation of the racket. None have been acted upon.

One resolution pulls no punches.

For example, it starts out: "Preliminary evidence clearly indicates that a serious malpractice on the part of a person or persons within the City of Philadelphia has been perpetrated upon many of the citizens of Pennsylvania through the issuance of traffic violation citations to innocent citizens of the State who were not in Philadelphia on the dates specified."

For those who have been victimized — and until you've been nailed it perhaps seems unimportant and far away — this part of the resolution unquestionably hits home:

"The evidence of the widespread malpractice has spread appallingly to indicate an almost wholesale issuance, seemingly at random, of false citations of traffic violations within the City of Philadelphia upon citizens of Pennsylvania, who, to cite a few instances, were bedridden at the time, deceased, out of state, or whose vehicle had been previously junked."

Also pointed out is the fact, underscored repeatedly by this column, that "isolated instances of such instances of traffic citations through 'human error' could be understandable but the appalling volume state-wide seemingly violent contradictions any such unintentional 'human error'."

Following this column's disclosure of the racket three years ago the Philadelphia "bandits" did agree that a sworn affidavit attesting that the motorist in question was not in Philadelphia on the date cited would be acceptable, but as the pending resolution points out: "The citations issued by the City of Philadelphia require those innocent victims so cited to needlessly expend time, effort and their own moneys to obtain an affidavit attesting that they were not indeed in Philadelphia on the date cited, thus creating a most unwarranted and onerous imposition upon the good citizens of Pennsylvania."

It's up to Rules Committee Chairman to spring loose the resolution; he holds the key at the moment.

Dam Construction Contract Awarded By Engineers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Army Engineers awarded a contract Wednesday for construction of the Union City Dam, part of a $33 million flood control project on French Creek.

Construction of the dam should begin in 10 days and will be finished by late 1970, said Rep. Joseph P. Vigorito, D. Erie.

The $4.3 million contract for general construction went to S. J. Groves & Sons Co. of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Still on the drawing board is whether the 2,290 acre project should be developed into a federal recreation area for boating, fishing and swimming.

Vigorito urged the engineers to consider creating a lake of 600 acres.

"The big question is whether such a water level would give adequate leeway for summer flash-flood protection," said Lt. Col. Wayne S. Nichols, chief of the Pittsburgh Army Engineers.

He said the decision would be made in the fall when reports are completed.

The Union City Dam, which will be built about four miles west of Union City, is the first of three dams to be built on French Creek. Construction of the second dam, the Woodcock Creek Dam, will begin next summer. The third project is the Muddy Creek Dam.

The Union City Dam will be built of compacted earth and lined with native sandstone. It will be 1/4 of a mile long and 88 feet high.

Bargaining Proposal No Help to Dairymen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed system of collective bargaining for farmers would be of no help to dairymen, an official of Eastern Milk Producers' Cooperative Association said. John C. York of Syracuse, N.Y., general manager of the Association, told the Senate Agriculture Committee that his organization, as a bargaining cooperative, would ordinarily welcome legislation to improve farmers' bargaining power.

But, he said, the bargaining proposal now before the committee would not help.

"Those who think otherwise delude themselves," York said. "They would sell their birthright for a mess of pottage."

The proposal for collective bargaining for farmers is part of a bill to extend for four years to the general farm programs for wheat, feed grains, milk, cotton and other products. These are now due to expire at the end of 1969.

"The dairy farmer," York said, "cannot withhold his milk from the market the way a worker can withhold his labor from his employer. The idea of farmer bargaining power based on employer-employee practices lacks imagination."

York endorsed extension of the present milk program.

Fred J. Greiner, representing the Milk Industry Foundation, suggested amendments to allow the movement of fluid milk and its products between milk marketing order areas with fewer restrictions.

Frank Heffelfinger, representing the grain and feed dealers national association, opposed the bargaining section of the bill and suggested that no more than a one-year extension of the present farm programs be approved.

Joseph M. Creed, general counsel of the American Bakers Association, said Congress should permit the farm programs to expire with the 1969

The baking industry has consistently opposed the wheat certificate program and the processing tax which has been levied on the users of wheat products.

"The election of Michell represents an important step forward in the progress of Struthers Wells Corporation," Finkelstein said. "In this new capacity, Michell can utilize his broad experience in behalf of the corporation's various programs to the fullest extent."

Michell was elected executive vice president of Struthers Wells during 1964, and has since directed Struthers Wells manufacturing operations. Previously he had been vice president and general manager of the Warren Division and first joined Struthers Wells more than 30 years ago.

Turnpike Commission Announces Projects

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission announced Wednesday that it plans to build new interchanges at Harrisburg-East and Gettysburg as part of the current over-all program of making the nation's first toll road safer and more convenient.

Chairman Lester F. Burlein told news conference that both contemplated interchange improvements, probably costing more than $400,000, would be built in consultation with the State Highways Department. He said the other expenses arising in the interchange construction will be borne by the highways department.

The Harrisburg-East interchange would connect with a new four-lane highway now under construction near the turnpike, said Burlein, while the one at Gettysburg "will eliminate the dangerous grade crossing that now exists there."

Burlein and other members of the commission previously disclosed at news briefings in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia that vast engineering studies are now under way — and hopefully will be completed by the end of the year — that will lead to a thorough modernization of the turnpike.

Bargaining Scheduled To Resume

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — Bargaining is scheduled to resume Thursday at the struck Lock Haven plant of Hammermill Paper Co., while employees at another Hammermill plant in Erie were voting on a proposed new contract.

Approximately 850 workers quit work on the late shift Tuesday and set up picket lines at the Lock Haven plant. Contract talks have been under way for several weeks between the company and the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union, a Hammermill spokesman said.

The current agreement here expired June 10, and operations had continued under the old terms.

At Erie, 1,345 production workers were to vote Thursday on a new company proposal. The union members had threatened a strike June 21, but the deadline was extended to July 1.

Hammermill said contract talks are continuing at four out-of-state subsidiary plants, located in Michigan and Massachusetts.

Hammermill workers reportedly earn $101 per week.

New Contract Talks Underway

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Negotiations resumed Wednesday to get a new contract for General Telephone Co. employees.

They are 1,500 members of three locals of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

They include linemen, installers, repairmen, maintenance, employees and clerks at Erie, Oil City, Johnstown, Somerset and other Western Pennsylvania communities.

The present contract expires June 30.

PESTICIDE PROPAGANDA

About once every month the editor hands me a release from the Industrial News Review that offers a well-drawn cartoon and some three hundred words of text directed to convincing the public that pesticides are both useful and necessary in our modern world. If I interpret the sly smile that crosses his face as he hands me the folded paper correctly, then I am being ribbed for the determined stand I have taken against these poisons over the past several years. He knows that this kind of propaganda makes my blood boil.

Not that I am against the use of pesticides, per se. We must employ means of controlling destructive insects if agriculture is to be profitable, and the cost of foodstuffs is to be held within reasonable limits. But what does burn me up is the constant defense of the persistent pesticides by the National Agricultural Chemicals Association when on every hand research scientists are documenting facts to show that these "hard" chemicals are polluting our environment with poisons having long-lasting effects on wildlife, and perhaps human life. In doing this they ignore the fact that less harmful and less persistent chemicals can be used to do the job. Maybe not as effectively, nor as cheaply, but with far less danger to the various forms of life that will come in contact with them in one way or another.

The chemical companies claim that if these poisons are used in prescribed amounts they are entirely safe. That may be if only one application is being considered. But with DDT having an estimated life of 13 years, and with applications being made on an annual basis, as they usually are, then what is the concentration on a given piece of farm land after ten or twelve years of cultivation?

Typical of the way the pesticide problem is being handled at the federal level is the conflicting attitudes that exist within the U.S. Department of Agriculture. On the one hand the staff of this agency is setting tolerances for pesticides and advocating their general use in all types of agricultural pursuits. While on the other hand, the U.S. Forest Service, a division of FDA, has condemned the use of "hard" pesticides and are conducting vast experimentation to find safer chemicals for their use.

Presently the U.S. Forest Service is conducting tests of Zectran, a pesticide that becomes harmless within hours of application, and intend to follow these tests with a product known as Sumithion which has similar characteristics and has been highly successful in Canada.

About the same situation exists at the state level. Agriculture experts endorse the use of the persistent type pesticides, while only recently the Pennsylvania Game Commission took an official stand against the "hard" pesticides. In their official statement the Commission said, "The Commission discourages the use of certain highly toxic pesticides such as DDT, chlordane, lindane, heptachlor, endrin, aldrin, dieldrin, and other hard or persistent chemical compounds used to kill insects."

Because these chemicals do not degrade or break down readily, they constitute a dangerous threat to mammals, birds, fish, soil organisms, and other vital elements of the environment.

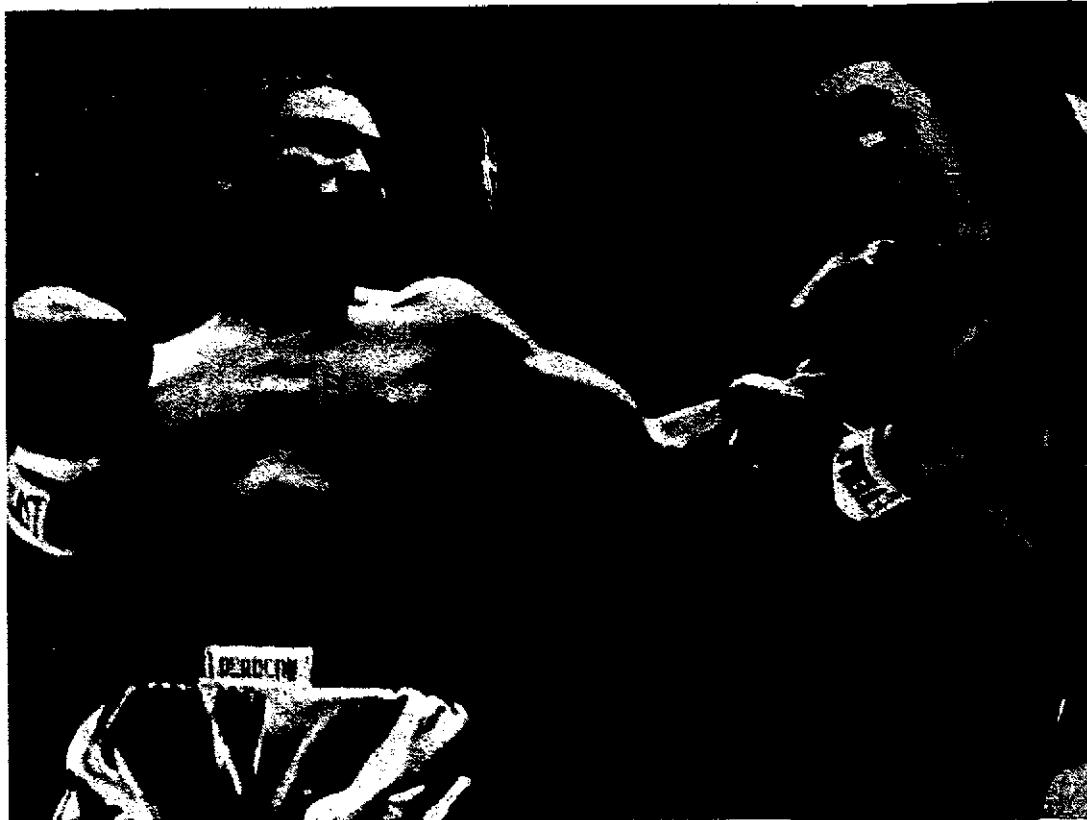

The Commission encourages the development and use of biologicals that constitute natural enemies of harmful insects. In situations where suitable biologicals are not available, the Commission urges the use of certain comparatively short-lived chemicals such as sevin, malathion, dylox, and methoxychlor instead of the hard pesticides. These compounds break down into harmless compounds rather rapidly.

Although the Commission realizes that these alternatives may be more expensive and less convenient, it believes the insect problems can be met without the use of dangerous chemicals.

Chemical manufacturers defend the use of hard pesticides almost exclusively on "the rise of the specter of world starvation." They want the public to believe that only through the use of pesticides can our exploding population be protected from want. Yet this year, for the first time in history, India, the land of perpetual starvation, is harvesting a record wheat crop that has resulted from simply an improvement in farming methods. The government is planning to buy up seventy millions tons of the surplus to protect the market price.

Of most concern to these chemical firms at present is the fact that many foreign nations, alerted by the tremendous amount of research that has been done, are establishing extreme pesticide tolerances or banning their products from the market. As these U.S. firms sell well over half of the pesticides used throughout the world, their concern is justified.

The sad fact is that here in the U.S. we respond to their lobbying and propaganda and go right on polluting the land areas of the nation with total disregard of the eventual consequences. It's six years now since Rachel Carson wrote the best-seller "Silent Spring" and we still haven't got the message.

FRAZIER RETAINS FIVE-STATE TITLE

Heavyweight champ, Joe Frazier, pounds his Mexican challenger, Manuel Ramos, during second round action in their title bout at Madison Square Garden Monday night. Frazier, never

Giants Edge Dodgers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Don Drysdale of Los Angeles pitched no-hit ball for 7 2/3 innings Wednesday but his own costly fielding error and Dave Marshall's pinch-hit single forced him to settle for a two-hit 2-1 victory over San Francisco.

The 6-foot-6 right-hander, who will be 32 next month, walked Jackie Hatt to open the Giants' eighth, his third pass of the game. Rookie Bobby Bonds then bunted and Drysdale threw wide to first for an error which eventually extended the inning.

Drysdale then bore down and retired Hal Lanier on a pop foul and fanned pinch hitter Ty Cline on a 3-2 pitch. But Marshall, another rookie, batted for Ron Hunt and lined Drysdale's first pitch over second, scoring pinch runner Jim Davenport.

Abernathy Clinches Win CINCINNATI (AP) — Ted Abernathy pitched out of a ninth-inning jam Wednesday night and preserved a 7-6 victory for the Cincinnati Reds over the New York Mets.

Abernathy, after giving up a pair of singles and a sacrifice fly, finally got Cleon Jones to hit into a game-ending force play, thus wiping out the Mets' chance to reach .500.

The Reds led 7-3 going into the ninth, but the Mets got a break when Lee Maye booted Art Shamsky's grounder.

Singles by Ed Kranepool and Kevin Collins brought in pinch runner Tommie Agee and also brought Abernathy in for starter Jim Maloney.

Bucs-Cardinals Split

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Strong-armed Bob Gibson unfurled his fifth straight shutout, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, then Ron Kline rescued Steve Blass in the second game to preserve a 3-1 victory and give the Pirates a split of the Wednesday night doubleheader.

Gibson's four-hitter in the first game brought him to within one game of Don Drysdale's recently set record of six straight shutouts. The Cardinals nine-game winner also has 47 scoreless innings against Drysdale's record 58 2/3 innings.

The Cardinals had a 1-0 lead off loser Al McBean, 6-7 going into the fourth when Gibson doubled with two-out and raced home on Lou Brock's double. Mike Shannon added another run in the eighth with his ninth homer of the season.

Phillies Win 11

ATLANTA (AP) — Tony Gonzalez' run-scoring single in the 11th inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves Wednesday night.

Mike Lum's first major league homer, a two-run pinch hit blast in the seventh, gave the Braves a 2-1 lead. But the

Homers Power Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Boog Powell and the Robinson boys, Brooks and Frank, clubbed Baltimore home runs and powered the Orioles to a 6-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday night.

Brooks Robinson slammed his seventh homer in the fourth inning after Frank opened with a walk.

Powell hit his 12th homer leading off the sixth and Frank Robinson, who has missed 26 games with illness and injury, followed with his fourth.

Powell also singled home one of two Baltimore runs in the

Down Sweethearts

The Akeley Angels took a 17-14 decision from the Sugar Grove Sweethearts in a game that was called at the end of four and one-half innings because of rain. Debbie Spicer was the winning hurler for the Angels and Sandy Curry suffered the defeat. Denise Carlson tripled in a winning game while M. Wilcox's three-bagger was in vain.

Nichol's Sure of Tie For First-Half Honors

By J. D. FRILLO

It will take a little short of a miracle now to knock Nichols Service out of the first half city championship as they clinched at least a tie for the laurels with a 5-3 triumph over Sons of Italy.

The nightcap saw Betts Machine Shop stop a late rally by the Mineral Well Mets to sew up a 11-9 hassle.

Number ten for the Tarantulas tightened the noose a little tighter on the Warren Beverage's chances. Five straight victories for the Beverage and two straight losses on the part of Nichols will have to be achieved before there can be a playoff.

Jim McMeans added his seventh win to his collection on a six-hitter against the Palsones' Tom Kibbie, who did an equally fine job in a losing effort.

The Sons put an early scare into the unbateens when they scored two runs right off the bat. A hit batsman and a free pass enabled Paul Johnston's single to produce an early 2-0 lead.

After Bob Ishman walked and Ed Rickerson beat out an infield single, Paul Johnston mis-handled McMeans' grounder for an unearned run. Johnston condoned for his error in the top of the third when he got a rally started on a base hit. Two grounders put him on third where Joe Tassone finally brought him in with a smash up through the box.

In Nichols' half of the third Johnston errored again and another base on balls set up the scene for Tom Letren's game tying double. McMeans wanted to win it on his own hitting ability as he tripled off the right-center field wall.

Ken Sorensen picked up his third win for himself and Betts, but needed relief help from his son in the seventh. Sorensen hurled a three-hitter over the first six innings before he developed a sore shoulder and was taken out.

Rookies Jim Mock and Chuck Cook provided the power in contributing five hits and five RBIs for the Black Knights. Betts exploded with five runs on five straight hits in the third to take all the tension off the game. It wasn't until Sorensen was relieved and the Mets were down 11-5 that they came alive.

Doug Sorensen experienced wildness in his first appearance on the hill and thusly proceeded to walk five men in succession. A single by Darrell Johnson and Pete Tundell's double moved Mineral Well just two runs behind their foes. The rally ended when the next two men grounded out.

HOT STOVE

B-D Edges Consumer

Barnhart Davis outlasted Community Consumer Discount, 12-11 last night in Bantam League play. Scott Simonson picked up the mound win over the Discounters' Greg Lytle. Duell pitched in with a home run and Jeff Bergher connected for a pair of two-baggers. Dale Trubick's triple was the only extra base knock of the game for Community.

Red Barn Wins Tenth

The Red Barn won their tenth victory in eleven starts last night by thumping Taylor's Pharmacy behind the pitching slants of Tom Spear. Tom Bailey feasted off losing hurler Denny Munksgard in hitting the cycle on a perfect 4-4 night. Randy Cook unloaded for a double and triple and Dudley Nollinger came up with a triple to lead Red Barn's attack.

Car Wrecked by PDM

PDM defeated Warren Car 6-4 in a closely contested game. Jack Jewell had the only hit off of losing hurler Gary Sadek. Dan Knupp picked up the victory in relief of Ricky Gustafson. Tom Corey and Tim Gay each had a pair of singles for the losing nine. PDM now leads the Western Cadet League with an 8-1 record.

Downed in Eight

It took Saegertown Components eight innings to defeat El Tronics, 2-1. Randy Edwards went the distance for the winners and struck out nine men along the way. He drove in the first run of the night with a solo homer.

Ideal Triumphs 14-2

Bob McCauslin spun a one-hitter and Ideal Bakery came up with a 14-2 triumph over the Style Shop. Kevin Smith homered and Steve Solamon tripled in support of McCauslin. Larson was charged with Style Shop's loss.

Belt Blasts Finance

Rex Chain Belt blasted Carson Finance 23-21 in another Bantam League encounter. Scott Palmer was the winning twirler and received plenty of twirl from his hitters. Dave Gustafson and George Mock made shambles of J. Oakley's pitching efforts by blasting a grand slam homer apiece.

Trask Fans 12

Bob Trask struck out 12 men to lift Morley-Sandburg to a 4-3 triumph over Pittsfield Construction. Trask's double was the only extra base hit for eight men. John Blum took the loss for Pittsfield.

Yastrzemski, Four More Return in All-Star Game

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, the American League batting leader, was among five repeaters named Wednesday to the circuit's starting All-Star team. The AL will seek to break a five-game losing streak against the National League the night of July 9 in Houston.

The others selected to start again in the annual classic were catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit, first baseman Harmon Killebrew and second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota and third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore.

Rounding out the starting squad chosen by a vote of league players are outfielders Frank Howard of Washington and Willie Horton of Detroit and shortstop Jim Fregosi of California.

Yastrzemski, the slugging outfielder who captured the Triple Crown last season, was one of the stars of the 1967 All-Star game. He collected three hits in four tries.

However, the other four repeaters did not fare nearly as well. Killebrew was hitless in six times at bat, Freehan in five and Carew in the three. Robinson had one hit—a homer—in six attempts.

The American League lost the game 2-1 in 15 innings and now trails the NL in the series, 17-20-1.

Freehan, hitting .264 with nine homers and 34 runs batted in, drew the most votes among this year's stars, 248. Yastrzemski, batting .317, was next with 246 votes, followed by Howard with 238 and Horton, 193.

Killebrew, with a .216 batting mark and 12 homers, just managed to edge Baltimore's Boog Powell. Killebrew collected 116 votes to 106 for the Orioles' slugger, who has a .259 average and 11 home runs.

The starting outfield setup may pose a problem for Boston's Dick Williams, the American League manager. Yastrzemski, Howard and Horton are all left fielders. Tony Oliva of Minnesota was fourth in the balloting with 48 votes, followed by Ken Harrelson, Boston, 47, and Rick Monday, Oakland, 43.

Only the three outfielders with the most votes were chosen regardless of position.

The voting was one-sided for the other positions. Joe Azcue of Cleveland was second to Freehan among the catchers with a mere 10 votes. Carew beat out Dave Johnson of Baltimore, 184 votes to 54. Robinson had 176 votes for third base to 51 for Max Alvis of Cleveland, the runner-up. Fregosi polled 173 votes while Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox placed second among shortstops with 52.

Slugger Howard Chosen All-Star

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home run slugger Frank Howard has been chosen for the All-Star Game for the first time in his 10-year career, but for him the next 10 days could be just as important.

The Washington outfielder's hitting is sagging in the face of defensive shifts by every opponent to crowd the left side of the field and paralyze his power.

Although Howard still leads the majors with 24 homers and 53 runs batted in, his average has plunged from .353 earlier in the month to .296 Wednesday.

"It seems like every ball I hit is right at somebody," said Howard.

Rival clubs have the left fielder hug the line and move the center fielder toward left. The second baseman, shortstop and third baseman are all bunched on the left side of second.

Howard had two seasons with the Los Angeles Dodgers on the threshold of 300 and has averaged more than 25 homers a year for seven years, but had never made the elite All-Star squad for either league.

The 6-foot-7 slugger was second in the American League voting for the three outfield positions behind Boston Triple Crown winner Carl Yastrzemski.

All-American Western Team Ready

Beban Awaits Friday's Game With Anticipation

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gary Beban, Heisman Trophy winner from UCLA who will quarterback the West Friday night against the East in the Coaches All-American football game, isn't worried about the way he has looked in practice.

West Coach Dee Andros of Oregon State said Wednesday he isn't concerned, either.

"Gary just doesn't look like a great passer in practice," Andros said before sending his squad through a light workout.

"He's not the type of passer who looks good just throwing the football."

"But he's a money player, and he'll throw the ball real well Friday night."

Beban, headed for the Washington Redskins, conceded he has not been impressive in drills this week.

"I'm offering no excuses," Beban said. "The game isn't until Friday night."

Beban admitted he is a little rusty throwing the ball, "because I haven't done any sustained throwing since January."

"But when Friday night comes, there will be some adrenaline flowing. I'm not worried."

Beban probably will have to do a lot of throwing in the nationally televised game because the West is not loaded with running backs.

"We haven't gotten anybody with a lot of power like the East has in Larry Csonka," Andros said. "Max Anderson of Arizona State could help us running, because he can fly. But we'll probably have to do a lot of passing."

Backing up Beban will be Billy Stevens of Texas El Paso, a dropback passer with a darting touch. Stevens was added to the squad when Wyoming's Paul Toscano had to skip the game because of personal problems.

East Coach John Pont of Indiana also is counting on his passing attack which will feature the throwing of Greg Landry of Massachusetts and Kim King of Georgia Tech.

"Landry will probably start, and he has been real impressive in practice," said Pont, voted the nation's top coach last fall.

"King will help, too."

The East, which leads in the series with four victories to three for the West and won last year 12-9, boasts the best-known runners.

Csonka, 235-pound Syracuse fullback, will be helped by Tennessee's Walter Chadwick and Tulane's Bobby Duhan.

"I think that between the two squads we have 60 of the best athletes in the country," Andros said. "And their attitude in practice in this heat has been terrific."

Junior Golf Reminder

A reminder that the Blueberry Hill Golf Club is starting a training program for young golfers in the area.

The Junior League will be for golfers from 7-16, and will be open to members and non-members. Non-members must pay greens fees.

The program will start at 9 a.m., Friday, tomorrow, June 28. A 15-minute instruction period will precede play. As the young golfers progress, the number of holes each plays will increase.

Those wishing to join the program are asked to call either of the following: Mrs. Stanley Glossner, 723-1549, or Mrs. Robert Lundberg, 723-3785.

Ralston Defeats Richey On Controversial Fault

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — On yet another rain-plagued day, pro Dennis Ralston saved two match points and went on to defeat amateur Cliff Richey on a controversial foot fault in Wimbledon's open tennis championship Wednesday.

Ralston, ninth seed from Los Angeles, knocked out Richey, the U.S. amateur from San Angelo, Tex., 6-3, 3-6, 7-9, 6-3, 13-11 in a three-hour marathon second-round match that thrilled the crowd of 3,000 on the No. 2 court.

In another marathon contest, Briton Mark Cox beat American Herb Fitzgibbon, the tournament's only giant-killer so far, on the center court 4-6, 6-3, 7-9, 9-7, 12-10.

For the third day in succession a cold and blustery wind and driving and intermittent rain wrecked the card and left more than half the day's 78 scheduled matches unplayed.

The girls fared even worse. So far only seven matches in the women's singles have been completed.

Ralston's lucky break came in the 23rd game of the final set. The 25-year-old Californian led 40-30 on Richey's service. Then the Texan faulted on his first serve. As he let whip his second serve the linesman called foot fault and Ralston had the vital break. Ralston served out the match.

Americans Marty Riessen, Stan Smith, Pancho Gonzalez, Arthur Ashe, Earl Butch, Alex Olmedo, James Osborne and Charles Pasarell are through to the second round. Ralston and Tom Edselson have reached the third round.

Americans eliminated include Richey, Jim McManus, Robert Lutz and Fitzgibbon. Allen Fox of Los Angeles withdrew because of a leg injury.

All the seeded players and professionals involved in Wednesday's play safely cruised through their matches.

U.S. 7-Strong In BWA Golfing

WALTON HEATH, England (AP) — All seven American Curtis Cup golfers qualified Wednesday for the British Women's Amateur Golf Championship and nearly spread-eagled the field of 96 international competitors.

Peggy Conley, 21, of Spokane, Wash., led the qualifiers with a 2-over-par 77, followed by Mrs. Anne Welts, 31, of Mount Vernon, Wash., and Shelley Hamlin, 19, of Fresno, Calif., at 78.

The only intruders in this bracket were Mrs. Claudine Cros-Rubin of France with 78 and Mrs. Jean Holmes of England with a 79.

The other American girls who combined to beat the British in the Curtis Cup June 15 were well within shouting distance and completely certain to be within the ranks of the 64 who qualify for match play, starting Thursday.

They were Roberta Albers, 21, Temple Terrace, Fla., 81; Phyllis Preuss, 29, Pompano Beach, Fla., 82; Mary Lou Dill, 20, Deer Park, Tex., and Jean Ashley, 29, Chanute, Kan., each 83.

The French challenge also included Bridgette Varangot, twice a winner of this 75-year-old title. She had an 80.

The British contingent somehow failed to manage Walton Heath's 6,242-yard par 38-37-75 layout, which was drenched with rain Tuesday. It dried out in sun and wind early Wednesday and was sprinkled again with wet weather in the afternoon.

Allen Owes Income Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richie Allen, Philadelphia Phillies' third baseman, must pay more than $8,600 in back federal income taxes, the U. S. Tax Court ruled Wednesday.

The additional taxes result from his 1960 contract with the Phillies which called for a $70,000 bonus—$40,000 paid to his mother and $30,000 to him.

Allen was 18 when the contract was signed and his mother, Era Allen of Wampum, Pa., handled the negotiations for him.

When she agreed on the $70,000 offer she said she was entitled to part of the bonus because, the tax court said, "She was responsible for his coming into baseball by her hard work, perseverance, taking care of (Richie) and seeing that he 'did the right thing.'"

Mrs. Allen had been paying taxes on her share of the bonus, but the court ruled Allen also would have to pay taxes because the bonus resulted from his services and not from his mother's work.

Allen and his mother had argued that the $40,000 received by his mother was not part of his bonus but rather represented payment for services performed by Mrs. Allen in return for her influencing her son to sign the Phillies contract and for giving her written consent to it.

chances of keeping their own trophy came on the sixth tee. Ann Irvin, 24, who was unbeaten in the Curtis Cup, hit her tee shot there and then collapsed. She was taken away for medical care.

Masserio Leads WPA Golf Finals

BUTLER, Pa. (AP) — Jim Masserio of Duquesne fired a two-under-par 69 Wednesday to take the second round lead in the 68th annual Western Pennsylvania Amateur Golf Championship.

Masserio's 69, coupled with his opening round 75, gave him a 36-hole total of 144, two strokes better than a trio of amateurs tied for second.

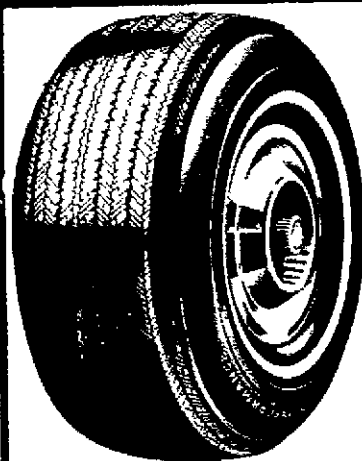

The championship is over the par 35-36-71 Butler Country Club course that covers 6,690 yards.

Tied with 146s were Richard Mann of Duquesne, 73-73; Ken Moran of Sewickley Heights, 71-75; and Ed Lipski of Willowbrook, 74-72.

What gets under Chevrolet's skin?

Only the toughest truck components
in the business!

Beneath Chevrolet's thick skin (double-walled in most places) lies a truck chassis built for punishment. A heavy-gauge steel frame provides the solid backbone for this inner strength. While a host of durable driveline components supply the muscle. Enough to whip most any job.

Of course, the heart of all this brawn is a Chevrolet engine. Six or V8 all are built for stamina. They last longer because of such things as induction-hardened crankshaft journals. Inexpensive to operate, too. All run on regular gasoline.

Keeping everything riding smoothly is the job of Chevy's famed independent front suspension. And what a job it does! Combined with tough coil springs, front and rear, this suspension system cushions the entire truck from jarring road shock.

So you see, beautiful engineering is more than skin deep on Chevrolet.

French Move to Reduce Economic Damage of Strike

PARIS — The French government moved Wednesday to limit price increases, subsidize exports and curb imports in order to reduce the economic damage of the general strike now ended.

In two meetings Wednesday,
President de Gaulle and his ministers concentrated on two imminent deadlines: the runoff election on Sunday and international tariff cuts on Monday.
Despite its lopsided victory last weekend, the regime was taking no chances on Sunday's voting, in which two-thirds of the seats in the National Assembly will be filled.

President de Gaulle decided to address the nation on television Saturday, the day after the formal close of the campaign on the airwaves. The speech will be broadcast twice, at 1 and 8 p.m., in hopes of catching voters before they depart on holidays.

But economic policy dominated Wednesday's sessions at the Elysee Palace. The decisions were reviewed by the new finance minister, Maurice Couve de Murville, at a news conference Wednesday.

He confirmed that France had sold gold lately, not only to Switzerland, as was reported in Zurich Tuesday, but also to West Germany and Italy. He did not say how much, but he commented that France would show a "very large" deficit in her

Youth Talked Out of Jumping From 23rd Floor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — For more than an hour Wednesday, a 13-year-old youth threatened to jump from the 23d floor of a downtown YMCA building. But a priest and others talked him out of it.

"You have a lot to live for,"
the priest pleaded with Joseph Convery, the youth who had climbed out a window and clung to part of a YMCA sign as thousands below watched the drama.

"You're 19 and have another 60 full years if you work it right."

The boy's stepfather and a friend begged the youth to climb back. Several physicians also talked to Convery for an hour and a half before the youth changed his mind.

It was hot and muggy in downtown Philadelphia when someone spotted the youth clinging to the sign about 9:15 a.m.

Some 25 policemen and firemen with equipment sped to the scene.

The 5-foot-9 Convery, wearing a lime-colored sports shirt and black trousers, wrapped his arms around the cross-bar and hung on. While talking with his brother, Charles, who works at the "Y," Convery asked for a bottle of beer and a hamburger and got them.

"Come on, Joe, come on,"
said the stepfather, Salvatore De Muro, 42. "You'll make a nuisance of yourself. Get in here."

"Everything is going to be all right. You'll hurt us more than yourself."

A friend, George Bailey, 24, year-old radio newsmen also talked to Convery.

"It was just another assignment," Bailey said later, "until I heard the name. I asked if he had red hair and when I found out he did, I knew it was the same Joe Convery who was in a boy's home with me."

Convery later climbed inside and police took him in custody.
Police said Convery was awaiting trial on larceny of an automobile and a firearms violation charge. Police said Con-very had lived at the "Y" for about two months.

balance of payments this year.
The trade measures detailed Wednesday were designed to limit this outflow of funds, but not to stop it. All expire Nov.
1 or Dec. 31, and it appeared that France had promised her partners in the Common Market not to carry them further. The measures were:

— Ceilings on imports of automobiles, trucks, textiles, appliances and steel, from 7 to 15 per cent above imports of a year earlier.

— The interest rate on government loans to exporters will be cut from 3 to 2 per cent.
— "Economic risk" indemnities will be expanded. This is government insurance to exporters against unforeseeable risks in the cost of production, between the time an order is placed and the time the goods are delivered. For goods not already covered, the government will pay indemnities of 6 per cent of the labor cost in each exported item.

Couve de Murville was less precise about the most important area of the cabinet's deliberation—prices.

An apparently tough cabinet warning on price increases bled down to this: the government will accept without question raises of up to 3 per cent, but will examine case by case any larger than that.

The 3 per cent pattern already has been adopted by the automobile industry, for the domestic market. Export prices were not changed.

However, there have been reports of far larger increases here and there. For example, two publishers have just raised prices of pocket books up to 20 per cent.

The government said it would take "severe measures" against any increases out of proportion with the actual cost increases. It conceded that in some marginal industries based on cheap labor, prices might have to rise more, and it invited trade groups to negotiate voluntary price codes with the government.

As a further aid to business,
Couve de Murville promised there would be no rise this year in freight and power rates of the nationalized railroad and electricity networks. But he declined to give the same assurance on passenger fares and household current.

Penn Central, Kayser-Roth Merger Planned

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —
Plans for the merger of the Kayser-Roth Corp. into the Penn Central Co. involving a multi-million-dollar stock exchange, were announced Wednesday.

Stuart T. Saunders, Penn Central board chairman, and Chester H. Roth, Kayser-Roth chairman, said boards of both companies had approved the plan, now subject to shareholders' action.

A Penn Central spokesman said the merger involves transfer of stock valued at from $25 million to $230 million.

Under the plan, Kayser-Roth shareholders will receive two shares of Pennsylvania Company, a Penn Central subsidiary, for each 5.2 shares of Kayser-Roth common. One of the Pennsylvania Co. shares will be a 5 per cent $100 par value $100 par value preferred, convertible
after three years into Norfolk &
Western Railway Co. common.
The other share will be a Pennsylvania Co. 4.75 per cent $100 value preferred share convertible after three years into Penn
Central common.

Kayser-Roth, a clothing manufacturer, earned $12.5 million in fiscal 1967 on sales of $377.4 million.

School Board Member Resigns in Protest

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Frank Hawkins said Wednesday he considered the bill constitutional. But Hawkins, in resigning Tuesday, cited a resolution passed 11-2 by the Board of Education last September. The resolution said state aid "would encourage a proliferation of non-public schools of whatever sect, militant group, church or political ideology that preferred to educate children for its particular program or purpose."

Asked what religion he is, Hawkins replied, "I'm a Protestant. But I don't think that has any relevance at all."

Shafer's aides said Hawkins' resignation hadn't been received by Wednesday, but released a statement saying Shafer "regrets to hear Mr. Hawkins is resigning. (The governor) feels that Mr. Hawkins has been an extremely dedicated member of the state board and an effective head of its Council for Higher Education."

Hawkins, who helped prepare the state's Master Plan for Education, was also a member of the state Commission for Academic Facilities and resigned that post, too.

Police Say Safe Jobs Work of Professionals

ST. MARYS--Benzinger Township police are investigating a couple of safe jobs which bear the earmarks of "professionalism."

Two safes were cracked between the hours of midnight Monday and 6 a.m. Tuesday in the township, one at Elk Building Materials and the other in Benzing Township Municipal building.

Police believe the Elk building was hit first since some of the tools stolen in that job were used in the municipal building operation.

The thief or thieves broke into a rear door at the municipal building but were stymied by heavy road equipment and could not enter the offices. Going around to the front of the building, the thief broke a window and reached in to unlock a door.

Upon gaining entrance to the safe, acetylene torches (owned by the township) were used to cut open the safe and a carefully placed charge of dynamite used to blow the safe.

Only $16 was taken from the safe in the municipal building and thieves overlooked a safe in the police station which contained $275.

Township police said the safe cracking appeared to be the work of professionals since persons unfamiliar with the use of acetylene torches and dynamite could have burned down the building or blown themselves and the building to ruin.

Bee-Keeper's Assn. Schedules Meeting

The Northwestern Bee-Keeper's Association will hold their July 29, 1968 meeting in Burgess Park, Titusville, Pa., at 10 a.m.

Participants should bring well-filled picnic baskets, a drink will be furnished. There will be games and prizes.

Women should bring their smokers and honey glazed coffee cakes, the recipe in May "Gleanings."

Forfeit Bail

Two Warren area men forfeited bail for failure to appear before Ellicott Town Justice A. E. Harry Johnson Saturday.

Robert C. Green, 34, of Bear Lake, charged with operating a car with an insufficient exhaust system forfeited $5 bail. Anthony Tomassoni, 42, of 23 S. South st., Warren, forfeited $10 bail on a charge of not observing a traffic light.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM Indifferent parking throughout some sections of the community shows utter disregard for the safety of others and could lead to traffic accidents. Pictured is a situation at the corner of Elm street and Lexington avenue, a heavy traffic area, where barely one-way traffic has been created. (Photo by Mansfield)

Senate Republicans Approve Commission Transfer Plan

HARRISBURG (AP)— Senate Republicans reversed themselves in less than 24 hours Wednesday and approved a plan of Gov. Shafer's to transfer the Human Relations Commission from the Labor Department to the Governor's Office.

In a complicated parliamentary maneuver, the GOP majority reconsidered a resolution they approved Tuesday which called for rejection of the reorganization proposal.

This time, the Republicans joined with the minority Democrats, who opposed Tuesday's vote, to defeat the resolution, 41-0.

Unless the House specifically disapproves the plan by Thursday, the commission automatically would be shifted to the governor's control. Ranking House members on both sides of the aisle said it was unlikely the House would move to halt the transfer.

Majority Whip Albert R. Pechan, R-Armstrong, who called for defeat of the plan Tuesday, called for its approval Wednesday, saying the GOP had voted originally under a misapprehension.

"We believed the commission would have fallen under the jurisdiction of the (Governor's) Office of Administration," Pechan said.

"We have been assured by Gov. Shafer that this would not happen in any way whatsoever, that the commission would report directly to the governor like the State Planning Board and the Council of Arts."

One of the major unspoken reasons behind defeat of the plan Tuesday was the GOP objection to Shafer's budget secretary and secretary of administration, Arthur F. Sampson, assuming jurisdictional control over the human rights panel.

The transfer of the Human Relations Commission was one of the key points in a special address to the General Assembly on the urban crisis.

In other business, both chambers continued to act on the remainder of Shafer's $2 billion budget as the governor prepared to sign the $1.7 billion general appropriations bill Thursday. The bill pays for 80 per cent of the budget for fiscal 1968-69.

The Senate sent to the House $31.8 million in appropriations, including $31.4 million for Temple University, a state-related college.

The Temple appropriation, which was held up Tuesday, was passed after questions raised by Sen. Herbert Arlene, D-Philadelphia, to the school's admissions policy were answered satisfactorily.

Sens. Benjamin R. Donolow and Henry J. Cianfrani, both Philadelphia Democrats, continued to block, however, a $2.4 million appropriation to Jefferson Medical College and a $1.5 million grant to Hahnemann Medical College in the city. The dispute also revolves around admissions.

Donolow, reacting angrily to a charge by Hahnemann officials that he was fighting the appropriation because he failed to get a borderline student admitted, called for a Senate investigation of the medical school's admissions policy.

His resolution was referred to the Rules Committee.

Shafer Claims Rockefeller Picking Up State Delegates

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Republican presidential hopeful Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is picking up delegates in Pennsylvania every day, said Gov. Raymond P. Shafer Wednesday.

Last week Shafer gave up his favorite son position and endorsed Rockefeller.

Shafer said Nixon has a wide lead because he has been a candidate for a long time. Since Rockefeller entered the race much later, he is expected to be trailing, Shafer said.

"I will stick with my conviction," said Shafer. "I will go anywhere in Pennsylvania or the country where the Republican party of Rockefeller wants me, to make the next president a Republican."

Shafer said the United States is not a monolithic nation but a pluralistic society, that Rockefeller can unite with his quality of human concern.

The governor does not feel there will be a division in the Republican party in Pennsylvania no matter who gets the presidential nomination.

Shafer made his remarks at ribbon-cutting ceremonies for a new Rockefeller storefront campaign headquarters in downtown Pittsburgh.

He gave a short speech lauding Rockefeller, then spent about half an hour answering reporters' questions.

Shafer said he had the support of 45 to 50 of the state's 64-man convention delegation when he came out for Rockefeller June 16. He said Wednesday he has no exact count of delegates supporting the New York governor.

Shafer said, "Rockefeller is not the only person who would make a great president, but I think he is the best choice."

His news conference also touched on gun legislation. He said: "The stricter gun controls will help law-abiding users by keeping guns out of the hands of the incompetent. If it saves one life, it's worth it."

Group Serving Aged Looking For Director

Experience, Inc., the local organization which has been working toward a facility to serve the aging, are currently seeking a director.

The group has purchased the former Marine Corps League Home at 800 Pennsylvania ave. W. with two floors ready for occupancy by July 1.

Applications for grants have been filed but no final approval received to date. Warren County Commissioners, however, have appropriated $5,000 to the project, according to Dr. Roger Mesmer, chairman, Experience, Inc.

Mesmer said the organization had heard nothing affirmative as to possible financial support from the borough as yet.

A classified advertisement in today's TMO outlines the qualifications sought in the directorship.

Missing Girl Discovered At 'Hippie Camp'

MEADVILLE -- A 19-year-old Meadville girl, who was the object of a search by State Police here, was found Tuesday evening at the "hippie camp" near Harmonsburg.

Deborah Ann Forness, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Forness of Meadville, had been reported missing Monday having last been seen June 19 at the camp.

Miss Forness had cooked some spaghetti and taken it to the campers. When originally investigating at the camp, state police were told the girl had been there but left later in the evening.

The girl's mother was taken to the camp by police Tuesday evening to talk to her daughter. According to police, the girl decided to remain at the camp and would not return home.

Window-Breaking Spree May Result In Two Arrests

ERIE -- A window-breaking spree at the ACT Center, 138 E. 18th st., late Tuesday night, may result in the arrest of two teenagers.

Another teen, reportedly involved in the window breaking, was taken to St. Vincent Hospital with cuts he sustained during the incident.

Identification of the persons involved, including the injured youth were not immediately known.

According to Ike Batties Jr., director of the center, many windows were broken.

"The damage was done by only a few youths who would not comply and conform to the rules of the Center," stated Batties. "It's just too bad that many will suffer because of the wrong doings of just a few."

Batties said he personally swore out two warrants for the arrest of the youths.

Local Teacher At Six-Week Institute

Howard R. Ferguson, English teacher at Warren Area High School, is among 30 English teachers from the Eastern and Southern United States currently participating in a six-week NDEA Institute for Advanced Study in English at Gannon College, Erie, Pa.

The Institute is from June 24 to August 2, 1968, participants receiving six semester hours of graduate credit.

Objective of the session is to develop the knowledge and skills necessary for efficient and successful teaching of English language, literature and writing in grades 7-12.

Courses in rhetoric, language, literature and a demonstration class-workshop will be included, with guest lecturers speaking on a variety of subjects.

Development Group Nearing Goal

The Brokenstraw Valley Development program of the Youngsville Volunteer Fire Department is nearing its goal as area residents and industry respond generously to its support.

At Monday's meeting of the steering committee, Robert V. Thompson, general chairman, announced the total of $121,780 toward construction of a new community facility.

As the program progresses, contacts are still being made with workers. Anyone not contacted and wishing to contribute may contact any fireman or call 563-9566.

Surveying and grading of the building site between East Main Street and Orchard Street is progressing. Footer foundations are next on the work schedule. The shipping date for the steel frame has been announced by McCushton & Company as August 15.

The building committee is studying the plans for heating and air cooling the building with various representatives.

Assembly Praised For Passage Of Food Bill

HARRISBURG (AP)— Groups representing organized labor and consumers praised the General Assembly Wednesday for passage of the state's first mandatory meat and poultry inspection law.

Mixed with the praise, however, was an expression of disappointment that the legislation now awaiting Gov. Shafer's signature, fell short of "excellence."

The bill had the strong backing of the Pennsylvania State Branch of Meat Cutters and the Pennsylvania League for Consumer Protection.

As passed finally, the measure would require state inspection of meat slaughtering and processing plants. Under present law, inspection is voluntary.

An exception is meat shipped into Pennsylvania from out of state which must be inspected under a federal statute.

In a joint statement, the Meat Cutters and Consumer League said they were disappointed because the bill enacted by the General Assembly:

- Lacked a provision calling for mandatory re-inspection at the retail level.
- Failed to make those slaughterers exempt from the law stamp their products "Not Government Inspected."

Public May Purchase New Chemical Weapon

PITTSBURGH (AP)— A chemical weapon with effects similar to that of the controversial chemical Mace used by many police departments was announced for public sale Wednesday.

Designed to protect individuals from attacks by criminals, the device is about the size and shape of a fountain pen and can be carried in a woman's purse or clipped to a man's shirt or coat pocket.

General Ordnance Equipment Corp., which makes the Mace, is producing the new weapon for Defensive Instruments, Inc., a Pittsburgh firm that will market it under the trade name of "The Preventor."

The weapon, according to Defensive Instruments, releases a jet of chemical droplets that will instantly halt an attacker and leave him practically helpless for five to 15 minutes.

The effects are virtually the same as those of the Mace: profuse watering of the eyes, temporary loss of vision and a burning sensation of the skin.

But both firms say that while it's more effective than other weapons of its type, it isn't as potent as the Mace, which General Ordnance distributes only to law enforcement agencies.

The Mace has been a controversial weapon almost since its introduction about a year ago. Its proponents maintain it has no lasting effects on the human body and say it is a useful, non-lethal weapon for the control of mobs and riots.

But the Mace has come under fire from some civil rights groups, and the surgeon general's office recently reported it possibly could have harmful results if improperly used.

How does the Preventor differ from the Mace?

"It's not exactly the same chemical composition," said a General Ordnance spokesman. "It is very similar, but it is a diluted form. But the major difference is that the flow rate is only about 25 per cent that of Mace."

"In Mace the chemical shoots out at 2 1/2 grams a second while in the other weapon the flow is less than one gram a second. The Mace also has a bigger range—about 16 feet. The Preventor's range is under six feet. Another thing—the size of the droplets in the Mace are bigger."

Motorcyclist Injured When Hit by Auto

Failure to observe a car ahead making a right turn off Route 957 near the Y at Columbus Monday afternoon, resulted in minor injury to a motorcyclist and possible charges against him by state police of the Corry substation.

Suffering a bruised right foot and released from Corry Memorial Hospital after emergency treatment was Daniel McCafferty, 19, of Columbus.

Trooper Norbert Irish, who investigated the incident, said McCafferty was eastbound on Route 957 behind a car driven by Sherri L. Moore of Corry. As Miss Moore slowed to make a turn, McCafferty's cycle struck the rear of her car.

There was no damage to the Moore vehicle and $50 to the motorcycle, police said.

Puzzled Driver Questions Police

CORRY--Dennis Rogers of RD 1, Columbus, would like to know who was driving his car while he was at work at Ajax Iron Works Monday night and early Tuesday.

Just before 3 a.m. Rogers asked police if they had seen his car being driven around town. When he described the vehicle, police were unable to recall having seen it.

The reason he asked, Rogers said, is that when he left the plant at the end of his shift, he found the coil wire was off the motor. He said when he put the wire back on he discovered the motor was warm. He had not driven it since 8:30 p.m. Monday and the keys were not in the car during the night.

Assembly Praised For Passage Of Food Bill

HARRISBURG (AP)— Groups representing organized labor and consumers praised the General Assembly Wednesday for passage of the state's first mandatory meat and poultry inspection law.

Mixed with the praise, however, was an expression of disappointment that the legislation now awaiting Gov. Shafer's signature, fell short of "excellence."

The bill had the strong backing of the Pennsylvania State Branch of Meat Cutters and the Pennsylvania League for Consumer Protection.

As passed finally, the measure would require state inspection of meat slaughtering and processing plants. Under present law, inspection is voluntary.

An exception is meat shipped into Pennsylvania from out of state which must be inspected under a federal statute.

In a joint statement, the Meat Cutters and Consumer League said they were disappointed because the bill enacted by the General Assembly:

- Lacked a provision calling for mandatory re-inspection at the retail level.
- Failed to make those slaughterers exempt from the law stamp their products "Not Government Inspected."

Development Group Nearing Goal

The Brokenstraw Valley Development program of the Youngsville Volunteer Fire Department is nearing its goal as area residents and industry respond generously to its support.

At Monday's meeting of the steering committee, Robert V. Thompson, general chairman, announced the total of $121,780 toward construction of a new community facility.

As the program progresses, contacts are still being made with workers. Anyone not contacted and wishing to contribute may contact any fireman or call 563-9566.

Surveying and grading of the building site between East Main Street and Orchard Street is progressing. Footer foundations are next on the work schedule. The shipping date for the steel frame has been announced by McCushton & Company as August 15.

The building committee is studying the plans for heating and air cooling the building with various representatives.

Window-Breaking Spree May Result In Two Arrests

ERIE -- A window-breaking spree at the ACT Center, 138 E. 18th st., late Tuesday night, may result in the arrest of two teenagers.

Another teen, reportedly involved in the window breaking, was taken to St. Vincent Hospital with cuts he sustained during the incident.

Identification of the persons involved, including the injured youth were not immediately known.

According to Ike Batties Jr., director of the center, many windows were broken.

"The damage was done by only a few youths who would not comply and conform to the rules of the Center," stated Batties. "It's just too bad that many will suffer because of the wrong doings of just a few."

Batties said he personally swore out two warrants for the arrest of the youths.

The girl's mother was taken to the camp by police Tuesday evening to talk to her daughter. According to police, the girl decided to remain at the camp and would not return home.

Hedrick-Atcheson Vows Are Taken In First Methodist

On June 22, 1968 Miss Isabel E. Hedrick and Richard M. Atcheson were united in marriage in the First Methodist Church, Warren. The Rev. Mark Wingerd, grandfather of the bride, of the Logans Ferry Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. James Cousins of the First Methodist Church performed the single ring ceremony in the presence of 125 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hedrick, 113 Yankee Bush Rd., Warren. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Atcheson, R. D. 3, Grove City, Penna. Miss Nancy Jo Niles, Erie, Pa., sang three selections. She was remembered with a peach carnation corsage. Organist was Mr. William Brocklebank of the First Methodist Church. A vase on each side of the altar held white carnations and gladioli.

Escorted by her father, the bride appeared in an "A" silhouette gown of white pure silk organza over bridal taffeta. A narrow band centered with a small bow and lace flounce defined the empire line on the bodice. Imported chantilly lace etched with seed pearls was applied around the bateau neckline and on the wrists of the long, fitted sleeves.

The A-line skirt was designed with a gathered back fullness which formed a brush train. The chapel length veil of French net, applied with scattered medallions and edged with a scalloped border of delicate lace, formed the train. White roses, stephanotis and baby's breath formed the bridal bouquet.

The maid of honor was Miss Carol McCall, Sligo, Penna. Miss Barbara Beals, Oakmont, Penna., and Miss Mary Ann Martin, Wilkensburg, Penna., acted as bridesmaids. All three were gowned identically, each in a floor length gown of linen with matching headpieces of a lace mantilla over a pill box. Miss McCall's gown was pink, and the gowns of the others were rose. All three carried bouquets of variegated pink carnations and pink daisies. John Atcheson, brother of the bridegroom from Sharon, Penna., was best man. Serving as ushers were John Bennett, Painesville, Ohio, and Lyle Hedrick, brother of the bride, Warren. The bride's grandfather, Howard Hedrick, was also present.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Hedrick chose a three piece pink suit with white accessories. She was presented a pink and white rosebud corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a white dress in a blue and white print with white accessories. She received a white rosebud corsage.

The bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Mark Wingerd and Mrs. Howard Hedrick, were remembered with peach carnation corsages. A reception was held for 125 in the Dunham Parlors of the First Methodist Church. The centerpiece on the bride's table consisted of white carnations, pink and white daisies and ferns. The four tier wedding cake was topped with a large wedding bell.

After a honeymoon trip to the Shenandoah National Park, Mr. and Mrs. Atcheson will be at home at 15104 Manor ave., Detroit, Mich.

The bride and the groom are both graduates of Grove City College, the bride in 1968 and the groom in 1966. Mrs. Atcheson is also a graduate of Warren Area High School. Mr. Atcheson graduated from Grove City High School and is presently employed as a chemist with Interchemical Corporation in Detroit, Michigan.

Prenuptial affairs were given by Carol McCall, Nancy Jo Niles, Barb Beals and Mary Ann Martin. A buffet dinner was given after the wedding rehearsal by the groom's parents in the home of the bride.

Guests were present from East Lansing, Mich.; Butler, Pittsburgh, Clarion, Leeper, Sharon, Grove City, Beaver, Reynolds, Erie, Pa.; Cleveland and Painesville, Ohio; Paris, France; and Tokyo and Kawasaki, Japan.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been staring at this piece of paper for 15 minutes, not knowing how to put my problem into words. Well, here goes: Have you ever heard of counting the silverware when the company leaves? I never thought I'd have to do it, but I was wrong.

Several months ago we had dinner at the home of friends. I noticed Mrs. A. had at least five different patterns of sterling silver — service for two in one pattern, three in another pattern, and so on. She had service for four in the same pattern I have.

This woman is in our bridge club and she has been here several times for lunch as well as for dinner parties. Recently I was preparing for a buffet supper for 12 when I discovered I was short 3 teaspoons, 2 dinner forks, 2 salad forks, a sugar shell and a cake server.

Have you any suggestions as to how I can hang on to the silver I have left? Don't tell me not to invite her anymore. She is a close friend and her husband and my husband are business associates. — TARNISHED RELATIONSHIP

DEAR TARNISHED: The next time you are in the woman's home make a point of the fact that SOME of her silver is like yours. Ask her, too, why she doesn't settle on one pattern instead of trying so many. Do it privately and be sure to convey the message that you are interested in her answers — not just making small talk. She'll get the message.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had to write and comment on your advice to "Countdown Mother" — the mother who confessed she hated her daughter and treated her shabbily from the day the child was born.

Several women at our card club discussed that letter and most of them said they couldn't understand how a mother in her right mind could despise her own child. I remained silent although I was well qualified to speak since I was such a mother myself.

One day I slapped my child so hard she fell off the chair. She had asked for a second helping of mashed potatoes and wouldn't eat it. Her nose began to bleed and I couldn't stop it. I called the doctor.

When he came I was petrified because the child had lost so much blood. He asked me what happened. I told him the truth. That wonderful doctor urged me to get psychiatric help. He offered to arrange for an appointment at the community clinic. After 16 months of therapy I am a new woman. I now understand why I hated that child. Furthermore, with understanding has come complete acceptance, if not genuine love.

Please continue to tell all mothers who have hostile feelings toward their children to get professional help. It changed my life and saved my daughter. — COUNTDOWN MOTHER NUMBER TWO

DEAR MOTHER: Thank you for your letter. It should give encouragement to other mothers who suffer with the same problem. Knowing that there IS help, that such a situation is not utterly hopeless, can be immensely supportive.

Confidential to Brought Up With A Closed Mind And Proud Of It: Your mind isn't "closed," my friend — it's nailed shut. I strongly suggest that you open it up occasionally. Something of value may drop in.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently my husband and I moved into our new home. A former neighbor came to call on us last night. As we were showing her around the guest asked, "How much did this house cost?" I felt the question was personal and replied, "I'd rather not say." Instead of letting the matter drop, she became angry and shouted, "Why not? Are you ashamed of it?" This really floored me but I decided not to be intimidated. I said, "Why would you ask such a question?" She answered, "Well, if you're so sensitive, skip it."

The rest of the evening was strained and I was glad to see her go. After she had left, my husband said I should have told her the price of the house and avoided the hard feelings. I'm sure this incident will put a serious dent in our relationship. Was I wrong? — THE CLAM

DEAR CLAM: No! Merely because the woman had the nerve to ask a tasteless question did not entitle her to an answer. If you've lost her friendship because you refused to knuckle under, you've lost nothing of value.

Donalyn Archbold Married June 22 To Richard Osborne

MRS. RICHARD D. OSBORNE
(Photo by McGarry)

Miss Donalyn Archbold became the bride of Mr. Richard D. Osborne on June 22 at a 2 p. m. ceremony in the First United Methodist Church of Youngsville. The Rev. Lyston Knappenberger read the double ring rites before two hundred guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Archbold of 317 W. Main Street, Youngsville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Osborne, 9 Victor Avenue, North Warren.

The altar was ornamented with two vases of white gladioli and white pompons. Organist was Mrs. Beverly Schnell. Mr. Jack Haight, soloist, sang "Because," "O Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, escorted by her father, appeared in white Chantilly lace and silk organza. The floor length A-line gown of silk organza over bridal taffeta was accented with a row of covered buttons down the front. It was fashioned in a coat effect with the lace forming the scalloped bateau neckline and the long fitted sleeves which tapered to wedding points. The back was gathered full, accented with a bow and swept to a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of English pure silk illusion was caught to a cluster of Alencon lace sprinkled with seed pearls and crystals. She carried a triangular cascade of white bridal roses.

Miss Beverly Archbold, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was dressed in a floor length skimmer of peacock chiffon over linen. Her headpiece was a matching satin petal cluster with a butterfly veil. Miss Susan Bennett and Miss Susan Gettings were bridesmaids, gowned in aqua ensembles similar to the honor attendant. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Cora Jean Archbold, sister of the bride, was attired identically to the bridesmaids. All carried bouquets of blue daisies and white baby's breath.

Ringbearer was David Wasberg, nephew of the groom. James Osborne served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Scott Osborne, brother of the groom; Roger Wasberg of Jamestown, N. Y., and Frank Cataldo.

Mrs. Archbold wore a coat dress of aqua raw silk with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. She was presented with a red sweetheart rose corsage. The mother of the groom chose an outfit of pink raw silk, and was given a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. Two hundred guests attended the reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church, which followed a blue color scheme with daisies, wedding bells, and blue ribbon streamers.

Aides were Miss Norma Johnson, Mrs. Daniel Tomassoni,

RICE is available in the United States. In four forms — regular milled, parboiled, pre-cooked and brown. Regular milled rice yields 3 cups of cooked for each cup of raw rice. Pre-cooked rice doubles or triples its volume when cooked from 1 cup of raw rice. Brown rice is whole unpolished grain with only the outer hull and a little bran removed. It has a slightly-chewy texture and nut-like flavor and requires more liquid and more cooking time than other forms of rice.

Leanne Niedzialek Weds W.A. Schneider

On Saturday, June 22, 1968, Miss Leanne Kay Niedzialek was joined in marriage with Wayne A. Schneider in the First Church of the Nazarene. The Rev. John Gardner performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the families and close friends of the couple.

The four-tier fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from Dior bow of satin and lace. Yellow roses and white carnations with a removable center corsage formed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Sylvia Niedzialek was her sister's only attendant, gowned in a street length yellow ensemble styled like the bride's. Her matching headpiece was of net attached to a Dior bow. She carried a bouquet of white roses and yellow carnations.

The groom's brother, David Schneider, of Croydon, acted as best man. Mr. Forrest Bainbridge, Jamestown, N.Y., was usher for his niece's wedding.

Both the mother of the bride and the mother of the groom chose blue ensembles with white accessories. They were presented corsages of white mums. Mrs. Kathryn Klenck, grandmother of the bride, was also remembered with a corsage of white mums.

A wedding luncheon for 32 guests was held at the Lazy Susan restaurant following the ceremony. The yellow and white color scheme was continued in the wedding cake and decorations.

Committee Warns Aid Cut Would Hurt U.S. Relations

(C) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The House Foreign Affairs Committee warned Wednesday that a suspension or drastic reduction in the $2.36 billion foreign aid program it voted last week would "provoke new crises" in U.S. relations abroad.

In a report on the authorizing legislation, the committee majority said the nation's common defense strategy would be jeopardized if Congress cut aid funds more than the $600 million already trimmed from the measure.

The panel voted 24 to 9 to approve economic loans and grants totaling $1.97 billion, and $390 million for military aid grants in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

A note of urgency was added to the military aid request Wednesday in testimony by Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford. He told the panel that a separate request for $120 million to finance arms credit sales to friendly countries had become all the more imperative since the breakdown of U.S. negotiations for regional arms control agreements.

Clifford told the committee there had been "no appreciable progress" toward regional arms control agreements either in Latin America or the Middle East. At the same time, he said, the Soviet Union had put a substantial fleet in the Mediterranean for purposes that are not benign and had rearmament Arab states and returned their war potential to what it was before last year's Arab-Israeli conflict, he said.

"We are deeply concerned about these developments," the secretary said. "It would be catastrophic if the United States decided to go it alone and build up its own military strength without trying to maintain the strength of its friends abroad."

"The freedom of the United States and the world from war depends on the number and the strength of our friends—not on our own internal strength," the secretary added.

In addition to the $120 million of new funds, the bill would authorize the transfer of $196 million of export-import bank funds to the Pentagon for making arms credit sales. But it would impose an arbitrary ceiling of $296 million on such sales whether for cash or credit or through Pentagon guarantees of privately financed arms sales.

Clifford said the U.S. would provide a total of about $1.3 billion of arms aid to friendly countries and allies abroad in the year ahead. The total included $420 million of grants under the foreign aid program—already cut to $390 million by the house committee—and another $417 million of sales financed by private banks.

In reporting the aid authorization to the House the foreign policy committee said:

"If those responsible for directing U.S. Foreign Policy were to be prevented from making use of the programs authorized by the Foreign Assistance Act, substantial changes would be necessary not only in the conduct of our foreign affairs but also in the basic objectives toward which our foreign policy has been directed."

"Nations which have accepted obligations to join with us to implement a common defense strategy depend on the U.S. for both military and economic assistance."

The report said some of those favoring elimination or drastic revisions of the aid program hoped in that way to force fundamental changes in U.S. Foreign Policy, others favored major reductions in aid as a solution to the financial problems of the nation and regardless of the consequences to our relations with other nations, the panel said.

"It is important to recognize, however, that there are nations cooperating with the U.S. in our efforts to alleviate current conflicts which depend on our assistance," the report added. "There are governments which, with our approval, have committed themselves to policies and programs which cannot continue without U.S. aid."

"No one should ignore the danger that a suspension or drastic curtailment of U.S. assistance could jeopardize current negotiations and provoke new crises," the report warned.

A minority report on the bill by seven Republican members stated that the authorization measure should have been cut by an additional $400 million. Rep. E. Ross Adair of Indiana said they would try to effect the additional cuts when the bill reaches the house floor on July 9.

North Koreans Display Alleged U.S. Spy Boat

(c) N. Y. Times News Service PANMUNJOM—During a Korean Armistice Commission meeting here Wednesday North Korea displayed an alleged "United States imperialist spy boat" which it claimed to have sunk off its western shores Saturday and recovered from the sea later. It is 12 feet long, a Japanese-made speedboat with two American-manufactured outboard motors. A steel plate on the boat bearing many bullet holes, mostly in the bow, shows that Yamana Motor Company of Japan made it. The pair of 50-horsepower outboard motors "Mercury 200" is from Kiefhaer Corp. of Fond Du Lac, Wis.

"This is a joint product of U.S. and Japanese imperialists," said Maj. Gen. Pak Chung Kuk, chief North Korean delegate at the meeting. He charged that the boat committed "espionage and hostile acts after intruding into our coastal waters" near the North Korean village of Pupo, about 70 miles northwest of Seoul, and was sunk by North Korean patrol craft at about 1 a.m. on June 22. He said "all the spies on board," whose number he did not disclose, were "buried underwater."

The communist general did not say whether the "spies" were South Koreans or Americans.

Two of six American-made lifejackets displayed inside the boat, which was on a truck outside the conference room, had Korean letters for "Seoul" painted in red. An empty wooden ammunition box had a label stating it had been shipped to the republic of Korea Army Ordnance Ammunition Command in Pusan from Fort Richardson, Alaska.

Park also showed a picture of a light machinegun, a submachinegun and a colt pistol allegedly seized from the boat. He charged the boat had been sent into North Korean waters as part of a U.S. scheme to ignite "another" war of aggression in Korea, as was the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo captured in January off Wosan.

The chief U.N. command delegate, Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward of the U.S. Army, said preliminary investigation of the Communist accusation broadcast over Pyongyang radio Saturday "revealed an insufficient amount of evidence to substantiate it." He promised a full investigation however.

Woodward implied that the ship the North Koreans claimed to have sunk might be a South Korean fishing boat. He recalled the North Koreans had kidnapped many South Korean fishing vessels and sank some in the past.

He charged that North Korean infiltrators intruded the demilitarized zone on 47 occasions this month. Eighteen of them were killed since June 15, he said. The U.N. command put on display outside the conference room a large number of items seized from Communist bodies, including 13 submachine guns, 40 handgrenades, many pieces of bloodstained clothing and a variety of infiltration equipment.

Latin American Alliance Must Appeal to Young

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United States' ambassador to the Organization of American States said Wednesday the Alliance for Progress must appeal to the Latin American young people seeking a revolution for social justice.

Ambassador Sol M. Linowitz said the Alliance cannot solve the hemisphere's problems without the support of the young people.

To gain this support, Linowitz said, the Alliance must make serious social and economic changes "that may create temporary dislocations."

Three-fifths of the people in Latin America are under 24 years of age, reported Linowitz. Linowitz told the World Affairs Council of Pittsburgh, "The young people must learn that we stand with the men of vision in their hemisphere, with those who believe hunger, disease and illiteracy can be ended, with those who are certain the entrenchment of the oligarchies and the privileged few can be ended peacefully, with those who are striving for a unified continent in which the governments are committed to democracy, reform and progress."

The ambassador said the region's record in tax and land reforms, school and road construction is impressive. But the potential for revolution within the remaining slums must not be overlooked, said Linowitz.

Legislation Aimed At Criminals Carrying Guns

HARRISBURG (AP) — Legislation aimed at cracking down on criminals who carry firearms was released to the floor of the House Wednesday by the Law and Order Committee.

The bill, introduced a year ago last April, would require that courts add five to 10 years on the sentence of anyone who carries a gun during the commission of a crime of violence.

As originally proposed the affected crimes would include murder, rape, kidnapping, robbery, burglary and aggravated assault. The committee added riots and civil commotions to the list.

In other action, the committee released three Senate-passed measures that would:

- Prohibit the carrying of a firearm on the streets during the period of an emergency, such as a civil disorder or riot.
- Require that firearms dealers lock up all weapons during hours when their businesses are closed.
- Prohibit the interception or interference of police and fire radio broadcasts by unauthorized persons.

New Hope in Battle Against Leukemia

PART I
The battle against leukemia is entering its final phase in the encouraging report from the American Cancer Society.

In an article in the April, 1968 issue of the ACS scientific journal, CANCER, Dr. C. Gordon Zubrod, of the National Cancer Institute reported significant recent progress against the two most sinister and most common types of leukemia: acute lymphocytic leukemia, and acute myelocytic leukemia.

Dr. Zubrod's encouraging report was qualified, however, by the fact that the very sophisticated, complex type of treatment required to achieve the dramatic level of possible progress is presently available only to a small percentage of leukemia patients in a very limited number of major medical centers.

What is now possible, according to Dr. Zubrod, is revealed in the following statistics:
In the three year period, 1964-67, the number of patients achieving remission -- a condition in which there is total absence of all signs and symptoms of cancer, at least temporarily, and the patient does not look, act or feel sick -- rose from 50 per cent to more than 90 per cent. Acute lymphocytic leukemia is the most common form of leukemia in children aged 15 and under.

There has also been a sharp improvement in the average survival time of children treated for leukemia. In 1964, the median survival period ranged from one year to 19 months from beginning of treatment.

Although it is not possible to report a comparable median survival time for patients starting treatment in 1967-68, Dr. Zubrod stated that more than half of the children starting treatment in 1967 are still alive, and he predicted that "it is quite possible that median survival in patients now starting treatment will be between 4 and 5 years."

Progress in extending the length of survival time through treatment in acute myelocytic leukemia -- the leading type of acute leukemia in adults -- has been somewhat slower in coming, but has only recently begun to improve. "The percentage of complete remissions (absence of signs of the disease, at least temporarily) has shown a sharp upturn," Dr. Zubrod stated, adding, "this is a certain prelude to the prolongation of survival."

He attributes the dramatic increase in survival of patients suffering both types of acute leukemia to three major developments -- all related to chemotherapy:

--Discovery of new drugs for use in chemotherapy
--Better utilization of drugs which came into use earlier
--Development of more sophisticated, more individually specific, usually sequential regimens of drug therapy, in which the chemotherapy is program specially designed, moving from one type of drug to another, as resistance to each builds up.

In addition to the illness of leukemia itself, leukemia patients often succumb to infection because this particular disease destroys the very cells responsible for maintaining the body's defense system against infection. This is a major hurdle to overcome in keeping patients alive.

Another deterrent to effective treatment is the limited availability of the most effective treatment, to leukemia patients.

"Modern therapy can be fully realized in only a handful of special centers," he said, attributing this only in part to a lack of money. "The modern management of leukemia is complex, difficult and potentially dangerous. Even when money is abundant, physical and other resources are adequate, and full knowledge, enthusiasm and autonomy are present, it takes 5 to 10 years to build the total medical team and give them what they need to treat leukemia."

Dr. Zubrod added, "We now have reached the situation where apparent complete chemotherapeutic removal of some widespread cancers can be accomplished by a few skilled teams. For the best treatment against acute leukemia, I strongly recommend that the physician refer the patient to such a leukemia center for the initial intensive effort at control, and then work out with the physicians at the center the plan for long range management."

Hints From Heloise

DEAR FOLKS:
Recently I just learned a new method of pulling weeds to keep your hands from getting stuck, cut and covered with wetts — especially on Johnson grass and stinging nettles (which hurts like the dickens if you touch it).
Take a plastic bag from the dry cleaners out to the yard with you. When you see some of those biting weeds put the soft, thin bag over your hand, hold it around your wrist or elbow with the other hand and then just pull away!
You can work for hours in your garden with no marks or scratches on your arm, fingers or hand. Also, since this plastic is thin and pliable, you can feel when the root is coming loose.
How about that?
I have also used this method when cutting down sticky, thorny bushes. It's wonderful when you are trimming plants.
Another thing... even though the weed is mushy after you have watered it, you don't get a bit of soil into the crevices of your hand or under your fingernails.
So let's go weed pickin'. But remember to take one of those plastic cleaner bags along with you...
It's absolutely the greatest.
Heloise

P.S. Guess you can tell I've been pulling weeds this week. If I could find something for my back, I'd have it made.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
DEAR HELOISE:
I needed a needle to sew a button on my husband's shirt. Remembering your hint about taking apart a pincushion to find needles, I decided to see if there really might happen to be one in there.
So I squeezed very carefully and guess what? I found fourteen!
Peggy Cunningham

DEAR HELOISE:
Did you know how you can make a delicious caramel pudding out of a can of sweetened condensed milk without even opening it?
Just peel off the wrapper, fill a saucepan with enough water to COVER the can (be sure and keep the can covered during the cooking period by adding more water), bring to a boil and SIMMER for three hours.
After it's cool, open the can and see for yourself! A really delicious pudding.
Nancy Mitchell

DEAR HELOISE:
Before we charcoal our hamburgers and potatoes, I always pour some oil on a paper towel and rub the grill with it...
Hey, look Ma, the food doesn't stick to the grill and tear apart when I turn it.
Doris Dean

DEAR HELOISE:
Could you or any of your readers tell me how to preserve a tulle wedding veil so it won't turn yellow?
Theresa Regan

DEAR HELOISE:
Cardboard inner soles are much more comfortable to bare feet than the leather ones that come in shoes.
I use facial tissue boxes and cut inner soles to fit my shoes. Perspiration is absorbed by the cardboard, and they can be changed frequently.
Miss T. Jaeger

DEAR HELOISE:
During the summer months when we are not using the wall heater inside our bathroom, I use it as a container for artificial ivy or maybe some bright plastic flowers.
This is really an inexpensive way to dress up the bathroom.
Reader

DEAR HELOISE:
Did you ever have a lovely dress that looked summery, but had sleeves and was very warm?
I solved this problem by making a small machine button-hole in the seam of the dress under each arm. This offered enough ventilation, and now I am getting a lot more wear out of it.

Japanese Flag Flies Once Again Over Island of Iwo Jima

(c) N. Y. Times News Service IWO, Japan—The flag of the United States was lowered on this tiny Pacific island at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday for the last time. Minutes later the rising sun flag of Japan unfurled beneath the clear sub-tropical sky.

"Sir, I relinquish command of the Iwo Jima installation," said Maj. Paul F. Gerber, of New York City, as the stars and stripes came down. "Sir, I accept command of the Iwo Jima installation," Cmdr. Kaku-Un Sakamoto, of the Japanese Maritime Self-Defense Force (Navy), replied as the new flag was brought out.

Thus the island captured by U.S. Marines in one of the bloodiest campaigns of World War II was returned to the former enemy in friendship, 23 years and three months after the late Gen. Holland M. (Howlin' Mad) Smith, the Marine commander, had officially declared Iwo "secure."

Iwo and the nearby Bonin Islands were returned to Japan as the result of an agreement last November between the U.S. and Japan.

But an American flag remains on Mt. Suribachi, the 510-foot volcanic cone at the southern tip of the island, on the site where earlier flag-raising by six rumples, dust-covered Marines produced one of the most famous war photographs ever made.

The scene, as snapped by Joe Rosenthal of the Associated Press on Feb. 23, 1945, has been reproduced countless times and was the model for a monument to the Marine Corps by Felix de Weldon, the sculptor, at the Arlington National Cemetery.

A permanent copper reproduction of the flag is attached to the top of a stone monument at the peak of Suribachi. Below, the Rosenthal picture is reproduced on a bronze tablet. At the side appears the tribute of Fleet Adm. C. W. Nimitz: "Among the Americans who served on Iwo Jima, uncommon valor was a common virtue."

"I know that the Japanese will continue to give careful maintenance to the Marine monuments, as well as those erected in memory of the Japanese soldiers," Brig. Gen. Richard L. Ault, commander of the U.S. Air Force unit in Japan to which Iwo had been attached, declared in a speech at the transfer ceremony.

Fewer than 1,500 Japanese civilians had lived in Iwo before the war. They fished, mined sulphur, raised crops and worked in a small sugar refinery that has since vanished.

The Japanese government has not decided what to do about resettling the island, but will use the airbase built by the Americans. About 30 U.S. Coast Guardsmen are remaining to operate a long-range navigation station.

Iwo had been taken by the Marines so it could be used as a refuge for distressed aircraft and to provide fighter cover for bombing missions to Tokyo, about 700 miles to the north.

The number of airmen saved by landing on Iwo is said to have exceeded the American loss of life in capturing the island. More than 6,000 Americans and nearly 20,000 Japanese died in the battle.

For a correspondent covering the flag ceremony who had also covered the battle for two more than 23 years ago, the return of the island to Japanese jurisdiction was an occasion for vivid flashbacks.

Seen from a ship on Feb. 19, 1945, the day of the landing, the porkchop-shaped island looked like a vast, smoking heap. Incessant bombing and the preparatory naval gunfire had stripped away or burned all the vegetation, leaving only stark skeletons of trees and dirty brown thickets.

For the next 26 days, Iwo was a place of death and misery in what seemed to be the most hellish landscape on earth. Here and there in the dark sand a volcanic fumarole spouted steam. Fumes from the yellow pits that give the place its name, Iwo Jima (Japanese for Sulphur Island), hung over the entire island.

Iwo is also the feel of black sand filling the eyes and gritting between the teeth, of greenish black dust enveloping the island like an evil mist, and of a little pink flower the size of a dime that was the only reminder of beauty.

Ore remembers, too, the giant Japanese rocket, the "Screaming Meemie," and the flame-throwers probing caves filled with Japanese, who are still there, entombed by explosive charges that caved in their underground hiding places.

Yet today Iwo became, as Capt. Yutaka Miyatake of the Japanese Maritime Self-Defense Force observed at the flag ceremony, a symbol of "the firm ties which connect the United States and Japan" in the formal reversion of the island to Japanese rule.

United Steelworkers Deny July 22 Set for Strike Vote

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers Union denied Wednesday that July 22 has been set for a strike vote among the rank and file.

"That's impossible," said Ray Pasnick, director of public relations for the union. "No date can be set until the Basic Steel Industry Conference committee meets. That's union law."

After the denial, a reporter heard a top union official give the date to his negotiating team meeting in the William Penn Hotel.

The official also told his fellow union men that the conference committee would meet July 15. Pasnick said no date had been set for a meeting of the committee, a 600-man group that can ratify a contract agreement or recommend a strike vote.

Union and steel company officials are meeting in Pittsburgh for split-level discussions to try to reach a new labor contract before the old one expires Aug. 1.

Plant issues and contract language are being discussed at one level by teams representing each of the country's biggest 11 steel producers.

At the top level a five-man union team and a four-man team representing the industry are bargaining on the money package. The meetings are held in secrecy and no word of progress has been made public.

Thousands of plant issues have been cleared up and only a few hundred remain. But the ones that are left are the toughest and some of the local union officials were unhappy with the progress.

"I've been coming to these negotiations for 25 years," said one union man from out of town, "and it seems like we don't ever get anything done until the last minute."

One top union official promised his local presidents that any plant issues not settled in local negotiations would be carried over into the company-wide talks.

"We're not going to let the company gloss over any of your issues," he said.

The nation's 450,000 basic steel workers average $3.67 an hour.

LARGEST IN THE WORLD

An architect's drawing depicts the new General Post Office to be constructed in New York City at a cost of some $100 million. The facility, which will be the largest in the world, will cover over a two-block area bounded by Ninth and Tenth aves. and Twenty-eighth and Thirtieth sts. in Manhattan.

COLD LINE FOR HOT DOGS OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Charley Finley has a complaint and it's not about how his team is playing or how major league baseball is being run.

The owner of the Oakland Athletics has trouble buying a hot dog in his home park. "I stood in line for 32 minutes to buy two hot dogs," complained the president of the club that this spring moved from Kansas City, "I roamed all over the Coliseum checking up on the service and it's rotten."

"There aren't enough vendors working in the stands,"

Helicopter Patrol Program Slated for Pa.

HARRISBURG (AP) — The assurance of federal financial help in launching a helicopter patrol program by the Pennsylvania State Police was reported Wednesday.

The department now has an experimental one-year program under way in the Philadelphia area, in which a single helicopter is used for accident spotting and removing victims from the highways to hospitals on an emergency basis.

The expanded program will involve the purchase and operation of two such aircraft during the fiscal year beginning July 1, with eight such units in operation by 1973.

Police Commissioner Frank McKetta said the cost of the program would be shared on a 50-50 basis by the federal and state governments.

The program in which helicopters would be used for general traffic patrol purposes, said McKetta, is the outgrowth of three years of research into the use of such aircraft as a police tool.

The cost for the first year was estimated at $178,000, and for the five-year program, $2 million.

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP) — Veteran driver Paul Vineyard has driven horses to victory at Roosevelt Raceway that returned the highest and lowest payouts in the history of the track.

Highest payoff was $239,60 for $2 when Gilt Hanover won on July 2, 1941. Lowest payoff came on Sept. 5, 1944 when Singapore returned only $2.10 for $2.

Some Occupations Barred From Auto Insurance Coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you are an actor, waiter, clergyman, radio or television announcer, soldier, farm hand, stevedore or newspaperman you could have trouble getting auto insurance.

Those are some of the occupations barred from coverage in a list maintained by at least one insurance company, says David O. Maxwell, Pennsylvania's insurance commissioner.

"Even a cursory review of the list made plain the reluctance to insure most occupations in which Negroes participate," Maxwell told a Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee Tuesday.

The subcommittee is investigating automobile liability insurance rates and practices.

Maxwell didn't name the company that maintained the list, but he said it is "apparent that companies generally have been competing for what they conceive to be safe business to the exclusion of those drivers who represent to them a high degree of risk."

Maxwell said that in a high-risk territory a youthful driver probably is paying more for insurance — if he has it — than for his car.

Maxwell added, however, that compulsory insurance would cause too steep an increase in rates and would not be the answer.
